MIAMI GRAND JURY PROBE HITS POLICE FORCE

'Ladies First,' and All Congress Asks to Fly, Says Will

(Special To The News)

PINEHURST, N. C., March 24.—Things must look pretty good for Hoover. This fellow Bascom Slemp, after considering for months the best offer from Coolidge, Lowden, Al Smith, Jim Reed, and even Willis, has finally decided to go with Hoover. He don't generally decide till it's practically in the bag.

After the three women in congress went up first, why all the legislators want to go up now with Lindy.

Nicaragua voted the other day not to have us supervise their election, but that's not official, as we didn't supervise that vote.

Yours,
WILL ROGERS.

PA NEWC OBSERVES

It is Pa Newc's opinion that it is high time that the sign on one of the buildings on the public square, used by the Salvation Army for a few weeks, be removed. With the season opening for large numbers of tourists to go through New Castle this is not what one would call a desirable advertisement for New Castle. Get it down at once.

A start has been made in the work of labeling roofs in New Castle for the benefit of aviators who fly over the city. Other buildings will no doubt be painted in a similar manner. Even if the fliers do not expect to stop in New Castle, the very fact that this city is progressive enough to have the town designated in this manner will prove of value.

And aviation is to get a real impetus here this summer. With two airport projects already so far under way that the planes are here for service and are owned locally, and with a number of student fliers already enrolled, New Castle is going to step into pace in the matter of aerial development. There is no good reason why this city should not become an important center on the air mail routes, either.

New Castle is getting away early in the matter of starting street improvement work. Council yesterday awarded a contract for paving Sheridan avenue from Mercer to Highland with concrete. This street will connect the newly improved North Mercer street and Highland and will give an outlet to that street at its northern extremity. Several other North Hill streets are to be paved this summer. With the increasing number of improved highways on the North Hill, the traffic situation on Highland avenue is being relieved.

With the hundreds of autos that have been parked in the vicinity of the Scottish Rite Cathedral during the past few nights, because of the big attractions there, it has been rather a sad commentary on city conditions when a stretch of street such as Blaine street, between Lincoln and Wallace avenues, has been allowed to exist. This street should by all means be paved at once, but it should be temporarily given attention at once. There are a number of holes in it where an auto sinks in to the hubs. This street is the only one near the big cathedral that is not in good shape.

And while we are talking about the number of autos parked in the vicinity of the Cathedral, the strings got so large last night that a score or more were parked on the North Mercer street hill, between Grant and Lincoln avenue, probably the steepest hill in the city.

Pre-Easter shopping is getting under way in earnest in New Castle. With weather conditions like today, and with industrial conditions in New Castle so much improved, the effect is already being noted in business circles in many lines.

Work is to be started soon on completion of the work of widening Mercer street, between North and Lawrence streets, by moving the curbing back on either side. The curb lights will also be extended along these sev-

Chief Of Police, Four Others, Are Held For Murder

Miami Chief Of Police And Four Officers Held On Murder Charges

NEGRO BELL HOP IS ALLEGED VICTIM

Reorganization Of Police Force At Miami Ordered Following Investigation

(International News Service)

MIAMI, Fla., March 24.—Five policemen, including Chief of Police Leslie Quigg, were held in the county jail without bail today following sensational developments in the grand jury investigation into two mysterious murders, one of which occurred two and a half years ago.

Chief Quigg, Lieutenant M. A. Tibbetts and Detectives John Caudel and Tom Nazworth are held on first degree murder charges in connection with the death of H. Kier, a negro bellboy, allegedly a victim of third-degree methods.

Kier, it was said, was arrested for accosting a white woman in the lobby of a hotel where he was employed. Taken in an automobile on a lonely road, Kier was taken from the car and shot and killed, it was alleged. Detective Caudell, the indictment charges, fired two shots, one of which killed Kier.

Alleges Conspiracy

The indictment alleged Chief Quigg conspired with the other officers to keep the negro's death a secret, and also ordered that no entry of Kier's arrest be made on the police blotter. Later police reported that Kier's body was found on the roadside.

The fifth patrolman, R. L. Wood, a detective, was held in jail charged with killing Victory W. Parnell, a carpenter, in November, 1926, without provocation, according to the indictment. Wood maintained he shot in self-defense.

In returning the indictments the grand jury declared it had discovered "an alliance between police and members of the underworld", and recommended complete reorganization of the police department and immediate removal of its present heads.

Big Auto Show Closes Tonight

Over 2,000 Attend Exhibition In Cathedral On Friday Evening

The New Castle Automobile show is a success. And if any one of the dealers or patrons were skeptical the day that the show opened, now they are convinced, for Friday evening over 2,000 people attended the show, held in the dining and ball rooms of the Scottish Rite cathedral. The show will close this evening at eleven o'clock.

Two thousand people saw the 88 cars last night—saw the airplane, and saw the 15 accessory booths—all displaying the latest products of American manufacture. Two thousand people saw the largest collection of motor cars ever brought together in the history of Lawrence county. And two thousand people were entertained by the best talent in New Castle. It was the high spot of the entire show.

Dealers Progressive

New Castle automobile dealers are progressive. For, in several of the exhibits are cars which will not be shown other places until late this year. They are the 1929 models, and to judge by the patrons who crowded around them, they will be as successful when they are put on the road.

Since the show opened Thursday at noon, when Mayor William H. Gillespie extended all courtesies of the

Fulkerson Will Retire After Spending 40 Years In Pennsy Engine Cab

Service of nearly 50 years on the Pennsylvania railroad, over 40 of which were spent as an engineer without any collisions or accidents is the record of Carmen R. Fulkerson, 121 Smithfield street, who will be retired on pension and his name placed on the Honor Roll of the Pennsylvania Railroad company on April 1.

Mr. Fulkerson, who celebrated his 70th birthday on March 10, entered the service of the Pennsylvania railroad as an engine cleaner on April 2, 1880, starting to work in the old roundhouse, which was then located just below the present West Side station near the old Black Bridge, destroyed a few years ago.

In Collision

On April 6, 1881, Mr. Fulkerson was transferred to the position of fireman working under Charles Sippy, his engineer for several years. His first run as a fireman was from New Castle to Homewood Junction. It was during his first year on this run with Charles Sippy that he was in one of the two collisions of his career. He says the

Dilks Continues Marathon Grind

One Of Few Easterners Keeping Up Pace In "Bunion" Derby"

INDIAN TRADING POST IS DAY'S GOAL

By LELAND C. LEWIS
I. N. S. Special Correspondent

CONTINENTAL DIVIDE, New Mexico, March 24.—"We're sitting on top of the world" C. C. Pyle's New York-bound "bunion derbyists" declared today, as they pushed over the nation's backbone here at an elevation of 7,265 feet, enroute to their twenty-second control at Thoreau, 32.3 miles from Gallup.

"Watch the Finnish combine", was the word passed between runners and walkers following the advancing strides of Arne Souminen, Detroit medico, who leads in the grind, with an elapsed time of 121:50:50 for the 709.3 miles from Los Angeles to Gallup.

The fact that the divide was surmounted by an ascent up a gentle slope made it easier for the athletes, who labored but little, and shortened their steps to compensate for quickened heart action. Thoreau, the night control, is an old Indian trading post, with many sheep, goat and cattle ranches nearby.

Easterners who have performed consistently for the 709.3 miles from Los Angeles to Gallup are Carl Willerg and Harry Abramowitz, New York; Arthur Richman, Brooklyn; Morris Richman, Mount Vernon, N. Y., William Morady, Newark, N. J.; Sammy Robinson, Atlantic City, and Earl Dilks, New Castle, Pa.

Who's John Doe Granted Pardon By The Pardon Board?

Mystery Surrounding Case Which Appears To Have Been Before Board This Week

Who is the mysterious John Doe, of Lawrence county who was granted a pardon by the pardon board this week at Harrisburg. The report of the pardon board said that he had been sent up from Lawrence county on a charge of breaking and entering.

A check of the records at the court house has so far failed to reveal the identity of this particular John Doe. There are several persons serving time from this county under that name, but it does not appear to have been any of those whose records have been examined.

Judge Hildebrand, District Attorney J. Elder Bryan, Prothonotary R. M. Campbell, have all so far been unable to give the identity of the John Doe who has been pardoned.

Several attorneys, who it was thought might have a John Doe among their clients have been interrogated but have been unable to unravel the mystery. If you know who this John Doe is, won't you tell the News and relieve this awful suspense?

Leap Year Union

Folks know it's leap year in Bloomington, Ill. The reason? The city has had its first real leap year wedding—with the bride taking the initiative. Betty Maurer, 20, and James Milton Riddle, pals from childhood, eloped to Chicago and were wed. Betty proposed, procured the license, and arranged all the details of the affair.

Likely To Recall Industrial Chiefs As Coal Witnesses

Indicate Rockefeller And Schwab Will Be Called Again In Coal Probe

HEARING RECESSED OVER WEEK-END

Agree That Some Form Of Legislation Would Benefit Coal Industry

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—John D. Rockefeller, Jr., and Charles M. Schwab may be called again before the senate coal committee at a proposed joint conference of operators and miners to draft regulatory legislation for the coal industry.

Committee members indicated today that the aid of the two industrial leaders would be enlisted in obtaining recommendations. The committee hopes to start working on a coal bill as soon as the present hearings are concluded, perhaps in two or three weeks. Senator Gooding (R) of Idaho announced an effort would be made to push it through this session.

Both Rockefeller and Schwab agreed that some form of legislation would be helpful to the industry. The oil man declared consolidations were essential to eliminate overproduction and said this probably could be effected through federal assistance.

Both denied emphatically union charges that companies in which they are interested had broken wage agreements.

R. B. Mellon, brother of Secretary of Treasury Mellon said he voted as a director for the establishment of an open shop policy by the Pittsburgh Coal company. The Mellons own a 25 per cent interest in the concern, amounting to $3,000,000.

The committee recessed over the week end. At Rockefeller's request it will examine on Monday Consolidation Coal company officials. Rockefeller asked that the company be given an opportunity to reply to union charges.

Five Hundred Scouts Give Circus Program On Friday Evening

Tepees, bridges, clowns, bandages, pup tents and lean-to's were mixed in a heterogeneous mass Friday evening at the Carnegie auditorium, for it was the scene of the annual Boy Scout circus of the Lawrence county council, Boy Scouts of America, attended by more than 500 scouts and those interested in the Boy Scout movement, and in charge of J. Lee Calahan, Boy Scout executive.

Program in Four Parts.

Divided into four parts, the program was the most impressive ever attempted by the Lawrence county council at a scout circus. Twenty-four troops of the council were present and put on some stunt, or combined with another troop so that their stunt might even be better.

Before the opening of the circus, Mr. Calahan, who acted as ringmaster, made a few announcements and introductory remarks.

"The turn-out this evening is most gratifying," commented Mr. Calahan, "and I am sure that every troop in Lawrence county will be represented in the camporee in June, when we will play host to the Boy Scouts of western Pennsylvania. But we must work, for I want Lawrence county to show the representatives of the other councils just what real scouting is.

"Then, Monday evening at 7 o'clock the first leadership school of the Lawrence county council will open in the Carnegie auditorium. It is designed for boys of 17 and over, and will train them to become better scouts and better leaders."

Scouts To Be Guests.

Mr. Calahan also announced that Herbert Pearls, manager of the Scottish Rite cathedral, had invited the scouts of the county to be his guests at a showing of Charlie Chaplin's "The Circus", to take place at the Scottish Rite cathedral Friday evening, March 30. The boys will meet outside the cathedral Friday evening and, led by the drum and bugle corps of troop 15, they will march to the auditorium.

Throughout the evening, scouts and their guests were entertained by the newly organized band of Elks troop 5. Although the band has only been organized since Wednesday, yet it made a very credible showing under the leadership of Scoutmaster Ralph F. Davis, and in a short time, it is believed, it will be one of the noted boys' musical organizations of the county. The drum and bugle corps of troop 15 also rendered several selections.

Scouts Show Work.

In the first part of the program, the First Christian church troop 17, American Legion troop 16, Epworth M. E. church troop 10, Enon Valley troop 1 and St. Paul's Lutheran church troop 21 put on a program consisting of building a lean-to and demonstrating first aid. In a very short time, a habitable shelter was erected on the floor of the auditorium and scouts were bandaged in every conceivable place.

Local Congressman Goes Up With Famous Lone Eagle

SWICK ENTHUSED OVER AERIAL TRIP

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—"With all the fine things that have been said about Colonel Lindbergh, nine of them do him justice," Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls, said after taking a flight over Washington with the famous flyer yesterday.

"He's a wonderful boy, a marvelous pilot—nothing that I can say would do him justice," Dr. Swick said.

With Dr. Swick on the flight was his son, J. Howard Junior, who thoroughly enjoyed the experience.

Mrs. Swick was inducted to go to Bolling Field yesterday and take a flight with Colonel Lindbergh.

This week Colonel Lindbergh testified before the House Military Affairs Committee in behalf of higher pay for flyers in the army air service.

"I'm in favor of higher pay for our flyers," Dr. Swick said. "They perform a hazardous duty and deserve higher pay. I regret that the House voted against a measure to give men in the subinarine service more pay. They perform a dangerous duty, also."

GIRL'S FATHER IS AFTER ASSASSINS

Tells Reporters He Knows Identity Of Slayer And Will Get Him

(International News Service)

MEDIA, Pa., March 24.—Mystery today surrounds the slaying of Norman Gibson, 21, son of Chief Prothonotary Robert Gibson of Delaware county, prospective bridegroom, who was found unconscious from bullet wounds near the Lenni war memorial shortly before last midnight.

Gibson was shot while returning home from a visit to his fiancee, Dora Killen. The couple were to have been married today.

District Attorney William J. McCarter is in personal charge of the investigation into the murder.

Shot by Two Men

In an ante-mortem statement to police, made shortly after he was admitted to the Media hospital, where he succumbed, Gibson said he had been shot by two men.

William H. Killen, the girl's father, who reported having been held up near the scene of the shooting recently and blackjacked by bandits, told reporters he knew the identity of the slayers.

"I know who did it," he asserted, "and I'm going home to get my pistol and kill him."

Killen was detained and quizzed by police for several hours.

For the region of Great Lakes, variable weather conditions during the week, one or two precipitation periods and frequent changes in temperature.

Arthur Mometer

The red line has gone on a rampage. It's seventy-seven at noon and the weather seems far away from March, its more like a day in June. There's a balmy kiss in the breezes and a promise of warmer days, and over the hills where the trees are bare, there's low hanging blue tinted haze. Its Spring, no mistaking this weather, the buds are beginning to stir, and down in the glen where the chickadees nest, one imagines a soft winging whirr. The overcoat seems but a burden, it palls when the sun starts to shine, and a light palm beach suit with a gray tinted hat would be very much better in line. But hold up for a week just for safety, don't get rash, as a chap oftimes will, hang on to the stuff that keeps winter away, for its liable to flare back a chill.

UNDYING FAME GIVEN TO LINDY

Rubberneck Wagon Drivers Point Out Spot Where Lindy Was Greeted

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The ultimate mark of undying fame has been conferred upon Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh by the professional tourist guides of the capital.

While the coming of a new spring and its inevitable tide of sight-seers, the big steering-wheel and megaphone men have remapped their routes to include the principal historical spots of the lone eagle's gala homecoming last summer. His name is immortalized now in the sacred litany of the wisecrack.

"Right here," says the new spell at the Washington monument grounds, "is where they had the speakers' stand when Lindy came home from Paris. . . . Imagine a fellow like Lindy comin' home from Paris to promote—anything. He came home to promote aviation. Well, that's something a fellow can promote without breaking the law. Right here, ladies and gentlemen, is where President Coolidge would have kissed the colonel if this were Paris."

At the White House grounds they point out the spot on which Lindy received the congressional medal of honor, and at the navy department, direct attention to a ten-foot glass-encased model of the cruiser Memphis, which carried Lindy and the Spirit of St. Louis back from Europe.

At the Smithsonian Institution the spot is marked which is to be the permanent abode of the famous Lindbergh plane.

LASKER REVEALS PAYMENT TOWARD G. O. P. DEFICIT

1923. He was credited with such a gift on Upham's books.

This brought the total of "dummy contributions," located on Upham's books, to $65,500. Lasker said he could not understand why he should be credited with this gift.

Before Lasker took the stand, two affidavits from Stanley Field and John W. Scott, wealthy Chicagoans, denying they ever handled Sinclair Liberty bonds, were read into the record. Both denied that they had been repaid for contributions to the Republican deficit of 1920.

Lasker said his contributions to the Republicans consisted of $25,000 in October 1920, $1,000 on September 23, 1920 and $1,000 in 1923.

eral blocks. This Mercer street improvement project was started last summer and was completed between North and Falls streets. That section of the street was also resurfaced and gives a fine approach to The Castleton, being a fine improvement in the street.

If you have any ideas that you would like to see in this Pa Newc column, send them in. Also, remember there is a large slot in the door of The News office on North Mercer street where you can drop news items any time you happen to be downtown at night.

With indications of a perfect spring day for touring on Sunday, there will probably be thousands on the roads in this county tomorrow afternoon. Do your part to make it a safety first day. Records show that more safety is generally used by drivers where there is dense traffic, but a little carelessness on any driver's part is dangerous on such a day.

While the spring flowers have not as yet begun to appear, it will be but a short time until they are noted. Visitors to the country should remember the oft-repeated injunction not to destroy the beauty of the countryside. Do not pluck these flowers, and do not pull up the plants. The flowers will wilt before you can get them home, and you will be spoiling the beauty of the spring time for thousands of others when you ruin the flowers in the woodlands.

If anyone thinks that 500 boys, in their most exhuberant moments, cannot make a very large amount of noise, they should have been at the Scout circus last evening in the Carnegie auditorium. Pa Newc's eardrums almost split, and this morning he had to hum to himself while he was shaving, just to convince himself that, after all, he is not deaf.

According to the boys at the auto show, dealers from all of the surrounding counties are bringing people to New Castle, just to see the collection of cars. Which augurs well for the proposed sectional exhibition which the New Castle dealers propose for next winter.

About the city things are beginning to brighten up considerably and the merchants say that it is because of the increased industrial activity in New Castle during the past few weeks. Everyone, it seems, is getting a new Easter suit or its counterpart.

That little boy problem that the city has could soon be cleared up, thinks Pa Newc, if the Boy Scout movement were extended even more than it is now. A boy's time should be occupied. His day should be a full one. And there is nothing quite like scouting to keep him off the streets and occupied in clean, wholesome pastimes.

And the automobile dealers are to be congratulated on the fine talent that they have secured to entertain the patrons at the show. It is the best that New Castle affords, and it is being well received.

Another of the advantages possessed by New Castle is the Carnegie auditorium. One could hardly imagine a more appropriate place for a Scout circus, such as that of last night, than the Carnegie auditorium. And the steel corporation is generous in allowing use of the building for such purposes.

Church services in New Castle on Sunday will probably be largely attended. It is but two weeks from tomorrow until Easter, the high spot in the church calendar, and attendance at church services always increases during this period, although attendance at New Castle churches has been exceptionally good during the year.

First appearance of balmy springtime brought out the park bench warmers today. At noon 15 or 20 had preempted space on the benches in the public square.

Some of the candidates for office are beginning the practice of plastering trees in little woodland stretches about the city with their picture and appeals to the voters. We know how much appeal any candidate would make to Pa Newc who would despoil pretty scenery in the city with such signs.

FULKERSON TO RETIRE AFTER 40 YEARS IN PENNSY ENGINE CAB

collision happened between Homewood Junction and what is now Moravia when they ran headon into the pay train. The paymaster was severely injured. Fulkerson saved himself by jumping.

The other mishap in which Mr. Fulkerson was involved was as fireman when their engine proceeding through the cut north of the West Side depot ran headon into a passenger train from the north. As they were both moving slowly at the time of collision there was no one severely injured.

Became Engineer In 1888

The promotion of Mr. Fulkerson to the position of engineman occurred on August 1, 1888 which position he still held up to the time of his retirement. As an engineer he started to work in the New Castle yards, but during his forty years as an engineer he pulled freight trains over almost every line in the division, having been on runs to Conway, Ashtabula Harbor and Erie and also as an extra has a few times pulled a passenger train.

During his 40 years as an engineman, Mr. Fulkerson stated that he had never been in a wreck or collision and the only time he ever lost any time on account of injury was one time coming home from the roundhouse he slipped and fell getting off a caboose and was laid up for several weeks with a broken collar bone.

One was more liable to accidents in the early years than at present said Mr. Fulkerson as in those days there was no block system and there was more chance of getting orders mixed, yet he says he was very lucky in never getting involved in any mistakes. Better rolling stock better equipment and improvement in all lines have also helped to reduce accidents in the present day.

Autos Increase Dangers

Since the time of automobiles Mr. Fulkerson asserts that he has never seen any crossing accidents or near accidents owing partly to the fact that he has been a freight engineer and also because during the late years he has been working in the New Castle yards. But he says some of the men on passenger runs have gotten several shocks at the foolhardiness of auto drivers trying to beat a train to a crossing. They say that the only thing they can do is to screech the whistle and trust to the common sense of the motorist.

Mr. Fulkerson was born in New Castle and has lived here all his life. He says he remembers when as a boy he used to stand on the hill above the Black Bridge and watch the trains pulling into the roundhouse just below. At that time the Pennsylvania railroad line came only to this point but was built on through to Erie before he entered the service of the company. When he first pulled a train they hardly ever had more than 20 or 30 cars in a train as the engines were not so powerful and the grades heavier and the curves more crooked. But now often 80 cars or more are made in a haul.

The family of this railroader has also turned to railroading to a great extent for of his 5 sons, four of them are railroaders. Two are with the Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh railroad, one with the Baltimore & Ohio and one with the Pittsburgh and Lake Erie company. His family of 3 daughters and 5 sons are all at home except two married sons.

When asked how he expects to spend his days after retirement, the veteran said that he hardly knew. He was going to enjoy himself in the best way he knew how, but he supposed he would feel kind of lost for a while after nearly half a century on the railroad.

During his many years with the company he has made many friends among his associates and they all wish him many years of enjoyment as the fruits of his labors.

city to the New Castle Auto Dealers' association, who are sponsoring the display, it is estimated that over 4,000 people have attended, and by comments passed to Ray F. Hall, secretary of the association, all were immensely pleased. By the time the show closes this evening, Mr. Hall believes that 6,000 to 7,000 people or more will have passed through the gates of the display.

How Show Started

How the show happened to get started is a bit of history which is interesting. Sam Scazzaro, when the dealers association was organized, thought that it would be a good idea if the organization would sponsor a show. Nothing was done about it for some time, but Mr. Scazzaro kept persevering, and finally his suggestion was considered. The display of 88 cars is the result of his foresight.

But even success does not come without its troubles. Friday evening the dealers were perspiring, mentally, for they were thinking of Monday morning, when the glamour of the display would be over, and when a Herculean task faces them. For, it was hard to get the cars into the cathedral, and it will be doubly hard to get them out. At the best, the runway is narrow, and while there were no accidents so far, dealers do not like to think of a $2,000 job rolling down the hill.

The most congratulated members of the association, however, are the committee which made it a possibility. It is because of their untiring work and their unique ideas that the show is the success that it is.

All arrangements were made by them, consisting of Joe Rick, general chairman; L. R. King, in charge of entertainment; Anthony Marino, decorations; L. C. Johns, placing of cars; Frank Phillips, placing of accessory booths; and James Cope, advertising. The committee worked for weeks before the show opened, and doubtless will have to work for some time after it closes.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT

GETTING THINGS DONE.

There are several ways of adjudging the work of a representative in the General Assembly. One is to inquire as to what he did in the matter of passing proper legislation, another, what he did in the way of helping to kill iniquitous legislation.

Still another is to find out what material benefits he was able to acquire for his district. This method is not always a proper criterion, but it does indicate whether or not he was active.

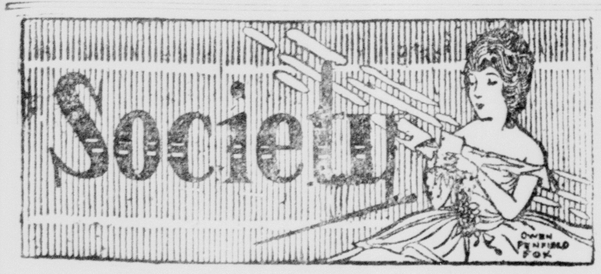

In the Omnibus Road Bill, passed in 1927, 1000 miles of road were added to the primary system of the state. Lawrence County's proportionate share would have been about 6 miles. Under the bill, this county gets a trifle less than 16 miles, or about $800,000.00 worth of concrete roads to be built by the state, or about $500,000.00 worth, more than we actually seemed to rate.

What is good for Lawrence County is good for the City of New Castle and these roads will mean much to the city. The credit for getting this much road for this county goes to no one man, rather it is a joint credit due all the members of the Lawrence County delegation. It was my privilege to aid in this.

I am a candidate for the Republican nomination for a second term to the General Assembly.

MOTHERS-DAUGHTERS BANQUET ON FRIDAY

The annual Mother-Daughter banquet of the Senior High School Girl Reserves was an event of Friday evening in the Highland United Presbyterian church. Eighty persons were in attendance. The banquet was at 6 o'clock.

The theme for the banquet was, "The Weaving of the Blue." The blue symbolic of heaven, the ideal. The threads with which one weaves to make it perfect, symbolize the four sides of character. Representing these four sides were four colors. The physical represented by rose, the mental by green, social by lavender, and the spiritual by white. These colors were carried out in the table decorations. Centering the table was an upright pole covered with blue, attached to the top were streamers of the four colors, which were weaved, symbolic of the theme, each streamer ended with a place card at each guest's place. A delicious menu was enjoyed.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Gibson, president of the Senior High Girl Reserves was toastmistress of the evening. The speaker of the evening was Miss Hazel Bell Withrow, Metropolitan Girl Reserve secretary of Pittsburgh, Pa. Miss Withrow spoke of the perfect pattern. Speaking of a complete pattern of real things of life and not imaginary things of life, and of making things fit or be suitable. Miss Withrow's talk was about the Girl Reserve and the perfect pattern throughout. Her talk was most interesting.

Short addresses were given on the four sides of life by two reserves and two mothers. The rose, or physical side, Miss Arabella Cobau; the green or mental side, Mrs. H. L. Gordon; the white or spiritual side, Mrs. A. B. Fankhauser; the lavender or social side, Miss Virginia Slee.

Other features were piano solos by Misses Alene Hyde and Elizabeth Gilfillan. Pep singing also formed part of the evening's entertainment. Firemen Answer Several Alarms

Since early Friday afternoon, the city firemen have been called upon to answer several alarms. An alarm from box 27 Friday afternoon, called the firemen to the home of S. P. Friedman, 419 Leasure avenue, where a fire loss of $75 was sustained.

As far as could be determined, sparks from an open heater door, set on fire some paper and other stuff and finally burned up through the floor at one place and into a rug.

At 1:50 p. m. Friday, an alarm from box 69 called the firemen for the second time in two hours to the Harbor road district to fight a grass fire.

Box 77 sounded at 11:30 o'clock today calling the Seventh Ward department to fight a grass fire in the Clayton street district.

Fellow Rotarians:—

Another speech without political significance. We will have a personal friend of Alf Chilton, Edwin B. George, head of the Philadelphia office of the U. S. department of commerce, to speak to us on matters of importance industrially, not politically Hooverized. Mr. George has visited some 37 countries as U. S. attache and will be a very interesting speaker.

We are in receipt of a menu of the Transylvania Rotary club banquet held on the high seas and note the name of J. Clyde Gilfillan as one of the directors. Clyde says he is going strong. We are unable to read the menu but nothing on it looks liquified.

DeLace Cole attended New York Rotary, Al Thayer visited the Miami club, Fred Rentz at Orlando and Ed Duff at Louisville, Ky.

William Bailey, 4, 248 West Falls street, mumps.

Helen and Josephine Ritchie, 4 and 2, 50 Canyon street, measles.

Catherine Dort, 3, 410 Wood street, measles.

Pauline Brown, 1, of 1112 Scioto street, whooping cough.

NEW FURNACES ARE INSTALLED

Howard Phillips, superintendent of the collection of garbage and incinerator, today stated that the two new furnaces have been installed and that employes now are whitewashing the interior of the building. The new furnaces will result in a big saving to the city.

The new furnaces are operated by ballast and it will not be necessary to burn coal. Last year 918 tons of coal were burned.

FREEDOM OF THE AIR

"AS FREE as the air" is a phrase that suggests the extreme of freedom. But now that air has become a medium of wide communication, congress has put upon its articulate use certain restraints. The restriction is simply that no person within the jurisdiction of the United States shall utter any obscene, indecent or profane language by means of radio communication.

Are there no other restraining obligations upon the individual who enjoys the freedom of the air? Has he the right to bore, insult or outrage the listening public? The listener has, of course, instant protection from all these invasions of his privacy. A turn of the dial and these demons of the air are dismissed. The peril comes from the insidious propagandist, the alluring demagogue, the covert advertiser, the fatuous entertainer and the debaser of the arts.

Obviously this new medium of communication must be as open to free expression of opinion as is the press, but there must be on the part of those who are responsible for what passes through these channels of the air as conscientious an effort to present the truth, and to offer what is ennobling in art, as is expected of those at the head of universities or of newspapers.

If broadcasting is to be a wholesome influence, it must be through high-minded direction by those who not only need no official censor to keep their programs from vitiating the air, but who have an aspiring purpose to make the "ampler ether" a diviner air."

This is a presidential year and by next November the radio listeners will have discovered for themselves whether the air is too free.

SHOULD ACCEPT COOLIDGE'S STATEMENT

FOR THE third time President Coolidge has made public announcement of his decision not to be a candidate for re-election this year.

He said first that he did not choose to run in 1928, a statement generally accepted as final by honest-minded persons who understood and respected the president's character.

Four months later, since many politicians failed or pretended to fail to get the point, he informed members of the Republican National Committee that he had eliminated himself from the field of possible nominees and that his wishes would be respected. This week, through his secretary, he advised the Wyoming Republican State Central Committee, which asked him to waive his personal preference and consent to continue his leadership for four years more, that he must decline the request.

This ought to make an end of the effort to send Coolidge delegations to the Kansas City convention. There probably has been little sincerity in that effort. Like the favorite son movements, it has been the directing politicians' way of endeavoring to create conditions in the convention under which a majority of the delegates, pledged to someone who had no chance or to someone who would not accept, might be combined in the interest of some candidate, without much regard to Republican sentiment back home.

Surely the president's third statement ought to be enough to put the quietus on this movement, so far as the use of his name is concerned. On indication that so it will prove is the declaration for Secretary Hoover by C. Bascom Slemp, one of the politicians who have insisted that President Coolidge must be drafted.

EMBARGO ON ARMS

ANIMATED by a desire to do something really practical in the way of making war and preparations for war more difficult, Congressman Burton introduced in congress a resolution framed to prohibit exportation of war munitions to belligerent nations. He considers it inconsistent for the United States to talk about universal peace while it hammers out guns for warring nations.

Secretary Wilbur and the navy general board opposed the resolution and were sorely rebuked by members of the house foreign affairs committee for their stand.

There are two sides to this question—which is not a new one—and it is doubtful if they can be reconciled. There is a degree of inconsistency in the existing situation, but it is questionable if anything could be gained by consistency.

The point taken by the naval heads is that the objectionable exports are keeping in operation munitions plants which are a valuable part of the national defense. They are prepared at all times to make munitions for this government. Whether the Burton embargo would close these plants or divert them into other channels of production the private citizen has no way of ascertaining.

Nothing would be gained if the United States refused this foreign business and some other country accepted it. That would be decidedly unfair to the American manufacturers and their workers. Better than an absolute embargo would be the withholding of arms shipments from nations suspected of wanting them for an aggressive war against another country.

Hints and Dints

Sun sets tonight 6:15. Sun rises tomorrow 5:58.

He who laughs last, laughs best. An old saying but only too true. And the fellow dependent on the public or political life of a community for his existence, should always remember to allow the other fellow to laugh first.

The truth about amatuer gardening, isn't what the gardner tells you about it. It's what you find out by trying it on your own backyard.

Isn't it a fact that people kick about the condition of the pavements just about as much as they did about the condition of the streets before they were paved.

Too often when you think you hear opportunity knocking at the door, it is only somebody wanting to borrow something. Opportunity neither borrows or lends and gives you only what you are able to make yourself.

The old-fashioned sweetheart wasn't like a sweetie. She liked things pickled, but she didn't get that way.

Here's a little thought that we're sure you'll all appreciate, the teacher tells the small boy to put up one hand so she can see if he has his lesson. When the boy becomes a man, the bandit tells him to put up both hands so he can see what else he's got.

Opportunity waits for no man or no community. It's the man or community that hops onto the opportunity that gets there. Earl Dilks, cross country marathon runner, hopped onto his opportunity and he is doing more to put New Castle on the map, than most of its citizens will ever have a chance to do.

The calamity howler is certainly getting a number of solar plexus blows these days, that should keep him quiet for a time at least. Now it's the Crescent Portland Cement company at Wampum that is starting up in full. A few more bits of good news like this and the howler will have to go out into the garden and eat worms this summer.

Governor John S. Fisher has developed into a man of unusual force as governor, in asking the senate investigating committee, just where it assumes the right to question the governor of any commonwealth and whether or not, the senate itself is prepared to answer a few questions. His attitude is not unpleasant to the average Pennsylvanian.

The effort of Senator Couzens to oust Andrew W. Mellon, United States treasurer, may prove more than a tempest in a "teapot" but Couzens and his hornets (senators) will hardly dare to state that they are in the same class as Mellon, whose financial genius has reduced the indebtedness of the United States several billions of dollars and at the same time reduced the taxes. Apparently they are more interested in petty politics than benefitting the average taxpayer.

Effort being made to discredit the laws of the city and the decision of the chief executive of the city in the matter of fines imposed for petty gambling and on Sunday, will not, we believe, meet with the approval of the people of this city generally. Arrests of this type are not made for revenue, but to correct and evident evil condition in the city, in the minds of most good citizens.

Modern life is pagan, selfish and self-centered according to Dr. John M. Thomas, president of Rutgers College. There isn't much doubt about the fact that people generally are falling for things that do not raise the standards of life.

THE STRANGER

A stranger passed me yesterday,
His name I do not know,
But he was walking the very way
That I was soon to go.

He did not seem to see me there.
To him no word said I.
There are so many everywhere
Who merely pass me by.

And yet thought I of him as he
Went swinging down the street,
Perhaps our lives might altered be
If we should chance to meet.

What difference it might have made
Before the journey's end!
Had he but noticed me and stayed,
I might have been his friend.

Or, since what chance may bring along
Is not for us to know,
He might have tried to do me wrong
And thus become my foe.

How vain it is to speculate.
I know know that I
Have missed a chance for love or hate
When some one passes by.

Woe Is Me, Alahama.

A Coolidge Hope.

A thorough Gang.

Old Hearts Dangerous.

By ARTHUR G. BRISBANE
(Copyright, 1928, by N. Y. American, Inc.)

Ten days in succession the Wall street gentlemen have bought more than 3,000,000 shares a day. Thursday they bought 4,000,000 shares. Ten days in succession the poor bears have said, "woe is me, Alahama."

What goes up must come down, maybe. But when the American Eagle starts toward the sun in the morning it is tiresome waiting for him to come down.

There is revival of the hope that President Coolidge will consent to run for a second election this year. Everybody knows he meant it when he said "I do not choose." Everybody knows he means it when he says now he does not want any of his friends to lift a finger to nominate him.

But the oil scandal makes a difference in the situation, and everyone of intelligence reserves the right to change his mind.

THE PRICE OF BEING GREAT

The greatest man that ever lived in this world was nailed to the cross and the passersby wagged their heads at him and reviled him.

Socrates was poisoned like a rat in a hole. Julius Caesar was stabbed to death.

Napoleon ended his days in lonely exile after receiving the homage of kings.

"You may want to be great. You may want to be good and grand and sublime.

But if you think you are going to have an easy time being great you are mistaken. The penalty for greatness, at least while you live, is not ease and flattery, but persecution and that of the most annoying kind.

There is something in almost everybody that induces him to stick pins in a great man, to hurt him in some way.

I know one man who is great in character, kind, and selfpoised in all his actions. His wife takes delight in nagging him. His children abuse his patience and almost everybody seems to have pleasure taking a knock at him.

Another man of national reputation whom I know was hired by a lecture bureau to deliver a lecture. He delivered it as agreed and paid his own expenses. The bureau collected the fee, but because they said the lecture was not satisfactory they did not turn over the money to him. He consulted a lawyer and the lawyer said it was better to suffer the loss than to enter into a long and expensive lawsuit.

So a great man cannot kick any yapping dogs that bite his calves. He must be content to let the flies blow him and not strike them. He must let everybody cheat him and never strike back.

Newspaper reporters are constantly watching to publish some story about him which will please the public because it defames his character.

If you are going to have a good time and get all the sugar plums out

HORSES AND FARMERS

Just the other day I heard news that caused my mind to return across a goodly group of years. Rolla Balch, a farmer near Wichita, Kansas, fell out of his hay mow and broke his neck. He leaves a widow and four children.

When I was growing up on a Kansas farm, the Balches were our nearest and best neighbors. They were the sort of folk who never fail in an emergency. In the west in the early days when my father built a house in the middle of a cornfield near the Arkansas river, neighborliness was a virtue second to none in the category of good qualities.

Steve Balch, Rolla's father, was born, I believe, on a farm near ours. Steve became the leading farmer of the valley. Everybody just conceded him the leadership. Why? Well, he had a very well-kept farm, and besides that, his horses were the best in the valley.

In agricultural neighborhoods, a man is judged by the horses he keeps. If his horses are thin and scrubby and scrawny, he is adjudged by common report to be a shiftless farmer and a man who is not kind to beasts. If his horses are sleek and fat and well-trained, he is looked up to as a man in whom human beings, as well as animals, may place confidence.

Personally, I think this is a just measure of a man, too. I often wish that men I meet in the city had horses, so that I might took upon the animals and judge the master's trustworthiness before undertaking to do business with him.

Steve Balch's horses stepped proudly, and Steve and his son, riding behind them, either on the plow or in the canopy-top carriage on holidays, radiated victory.

Rolla and I went to school together at a one-room country school where the teaching was not very well done. When we quit going to that school our ways diverged, for he was of the third generation of Balches to till the valley soil, and I wandered to far places in search of knowledge.

And now my old friend is dead, killed in the course of his labors for his handsome horses, I have no doubt. For the good farmer is devoted to his horses, and will toil for their comfort and well-being as they toil for his livelihood. It is a most interesting world, with Life and Death still taunting us with their mysterious ways.

The World AND THE Mud Puddles

A MATRIARCHY, EH?

Count Herman Keyserling is a Russian. Once a Russian, always a Russian. He was rich in the Old Days and a child of Autocracy. The Bolshevics took all his property and would have taken his life could they have caught him, but the Count is still a Russian. He is like Commodore Stephen Decatur: "My Country Right, but Right or Wrong, My Country!"

Count Keyserling may be rich again if he continues speaking to Women's Clubs at a Thousand Dollars an hour. He stands 6 feet 2 inches. He looks suitably aristocratic, with lofty forehead, grey hair, Van Dyke beard and magnetic eyes. His usual greeting is the declaration that he is "very informal." He speaks most any foreign tongue well (the Russian is the greatest of all linguists). He speaks English, and How.

In an interesting interview recently he said that America is a Matriarchal Nation and becoming more so. Bolshevism and Americanism will be the two dominating creeds of the world very soon. He is Russian, the Bolshesivt is Russian.

"I am gay, sensitive, tender, artistic—I cannot be formal. I never learn a language. I just know them all through understanding their people. Yes, I drink champagne; it is a necessary stimulant for me. People exhaust me. I have a weak heart. I lived in solitude away from people for thirty-eight years."

Something was said about breaking the laws of the country.

"You all do," laughed the Count with a loud guffaw. "But this is a matriarchal nation. There is always prohibition where women dominate. Norway is, too—and tried it for two years, but the men became too dull, so they changed it."

"Is that why you object to exclusively masculine parties in this country?" he was asked.

"Oh, that!" And the Count guffawed again. "Well, they are very formal. A party with men only becomes a court-martial. They have not the art of gay convention. But the young American girl . . . My first lecture at Vassar. Marvelous. I spent a day with them. They are cultured, gay, dominating. I study them. The American girl is the most original in the world. No other country has anything like them. This is a feminine country. When your bright men do offer opinions, they are feminine opinions. Now Germany, Russia, the Orient—they are patriarchal nations. France and Spain are matriarchal in a different way. . . . But America has prohibited because her women do not like to drink; they do not need stimulant. Men are their stimulant . . . Prohibition makes men dull. And the whiskeys and gins they drink make them numb. If they could have a pint of champagne every day it might save them.

"Then do women create Prohibition and make their men dull—take the pep out of their 'stimulant'?" asked a reporter.

"In a patriarchal country men do not mind if their women are stupid, they get their mental stimulant from their own sex, and wine. In a matriarchal nation women don't mind their men being stupid, they get their mental stimulant from each other, at these great women's clubs, and colleges I address, or invite speakers like myself," he grinned. "Your Mrs. Eddy's religion, another evidence of the matriachry.

"Aren't you interested in the young men here?" someone asked.

"Oh," shrugged the Count, "they will grow into Babbitts. Some nations I should study through the young men. But America through her young girls."

Then the Count said that he considers his "Travel Diary" his best book because, "it took me seven years to write, because I rewrote it again and again until it is perfect and because I have revealed the soul of the nations."

He said the world will soon be divided between Americanism and Bolshevism, which are really Matriarchy and Patriarchy. It won't be the present form of Bolshevism which is experimental, but a form that makes a cult of "equal poverty", in which the struggle for wealth and property is eliminated. Americanism is feminine, woman always wants to own property. Men work and pile up money in America for women. When they get to like it, they have become feminine themselves. Bolshevism is essentially masculine, altruistic, artistic, work for the love of art, not acquiring property.

The Count says that he never delivers the same lecture twice. He speaks extemporaneously only. When he lost all his property in Russia he discovered the gift of rhetoric and came out of his solitude, learned to meet people, married and has two sons, five and seven years of age.

"I know nothing about children. I don't understand them. I am afraid of them," he says, laughing . . . and so they love me."

"I have no disciples. I found no cult. All I do is provoke thought, to state my ideas. I give always, give of myself. And in this country," he added, grinning naughtily, "always to women who have the time to listen while the men work . . . All women are more intelligent in this country, but the young ones most of all."

The Count talks rapidly, vivaciously, with many gestures and much rather violent animation. Sometimes he seems a little mad. "Not guilty by reason of insanity"—but perhaps all geniuses are a little mad.

Will Start Erection Of Ludwig Building During Coming Week

It was announced today by Max Ludwig of the Max Ludwig Company, that ground would be broken at once for the erection of the garage building on West Washington street which it was announced some time ago would be undertaken in the near future. This building when completed will house the Shenango Motor Company home of the new Ford car.

Frank Foulke, the architect in charge of the construction of the building, has announced that the building will be entirely of fireproof construction, containing every modern device for the efficient management of an automobile sales and service organization. It will be three stories and basement in height, with a ramp from the first to the third floor.

The entire frontage on West Washington street, being more than 150 feet, will hold the showrooms and offices, while the rest of the building will contain the service, parts and storage departments.

The building has been let by general contract to the Exposito Construction Company of Woodlawn and it is announced by that concern that New Castle labor will be used in the work.

The successful bidders were $25,000 lower than the highest bidder and $20,000 lower than the lowest of the other bidders. Mr. Ludwig stated today that the sub-contractors would all be let to New Castle contractors and that all supplies and material will be purchased here, whenever it will be possible.

The contractors expect to begin excavating the first of next week, and they hope to complete their work and deliver the building before the last of July. The building when completed will be one of the most modern garage buildings in this part of the state.

Intelligence Tests Given 1900 Pupils In County Schools

In Nature Of A Preliminary Test For Eligibility For High School Exams

Standard Otis classification tests were given to 1900 pupils in the Lawrence county school yesterday, according to County Superintendent J. C. Syling. The test is in the nature of an intelligence test. Those passing will be qualified to take the coming high school examinations without any other examination.

The test starts out with personal matters relative to the pupils' birth, parents, brothers and sisters, and the intentions of the pupil to continue study in higher institutions of learning.

Then there are several questions in which lists of words are given and the pupil is asked to designate the words wrongly spelled.

Here are some of the other questions: Which of the states produces the most oranges? Where is the Sargasso sea, Atlantic ocean, Pacific ocean, Mediterranean sea?

The largest country is: 1 Germany, 2 France, 3 Spain, 4 Russia, 5 New Mexico? Write answer.

The telephone was invented by Marconi, Morse, Bell, Edison, Franklin? Write answer.

Members of the supreme court of the United States are chosen by the people, congress, the president, state legislature, cabinet? Write answer.

The constitution of a city is called grant, charter, amendment, common law, ordinance? Write answer.

Which one of the following men was prominent in the Colonial period, General Braddock, Andrew Johnson, Stephen A. Douglass, Santa Anna?

Thunder is caused by collision of clouds, strong wind, rain striking the earth and trees, lightning? Which?

A dealer sells radios at $80, having bought them of the manufacturer at a discount of 40 per cent of this selling price. How many dollars does each radio cost the dealer?

There were 115 questions given the pupils in the tests.

Tests are also being filled out by teachers. The object of these tests is to ascertain if pupils who are under teachers specially prepared for the work make any better grades than those who have had but little special preparation.

Neighbors

By IDAH McGLONE GIBSON

"No one has any neighbors any more," remarked a woman at the bridge club.

"Does any one want neighbors?" asked her partner.

I do not know whether anyone wants neighbors in this modern age, but I sometimes think some of us need them.

We are living among all kinds of people but we are not of them. We draw ourselves within our little narrow confining souls and become more and more selfish as the years go by.

When others of our kind were few and far between, when our neighbors were miles from us, we longed for a sight of them, we wanted to clasp their hands, we wanted to hear them speak.

Our forefathers would impatiently wait until the work on the farm was so nearly done that they would harness up the horses and drive the five or six miles to the next house with the pot of home made butter or side of bacon. Our grandfathers and grandmothers appreciated their neighbors. Now that we have annihilated time and space, we are more personally alone than we were when our few friends were separated from us by miles.

Living today in an apartment house in which there may be 50 or a hundred families, we know few intimately and take less interest in them than our ancestors did in persons who lived out their daily lives ten miles from them.

When we have the telephone for the transaction of all necessary business and the radio for our entertainment, there really is no reason why we should meet any one face to face. Life becomes purely an economic and commercial transaction.

"I suppose I ought to go to the door across the hall and ask how their baby is. It was crying all night," one may think idly, and then comes the knowledge that the baby's parents are in direct communication with doctors and drug stores, if they need them, and you stay at home and think no more about it until you see an automobile from the undertaker's before the house and a big bunch of flowers tied on the doorbell.

Today people have acquaintances, but they do not have neighbors and friends.

convicted is another thing. Even in Canada where the courts work faster than they do here the police are complaining that liquor smugglers especially are too frequently acquitted.

Much of the lack of efficiency among policemen and other enforcement officers is either created or encouraged by lack of co-operation on the part of the courts or stupidity on the part of juries.

NEW LEADERSHIP.

The lack of scientific mind or good business mind in places of political leadership has held back the development of industry and education in this country as it must hold back development in every country. History tells us that the state suppressed the steam motor bus by law about 1830. A recent writer says government action delayed the development of the motor industry in this country 70 years.

Good leadership calls for men who have trained minds who see many things from a scientific angle who know and understand the problems of business. We can not depend on leadership which is merely political.

WHITE VESTS.

We all know that the country needs statesmen who are real—real in ability and character. We do not need these near-statesmen whose chief claims to political fame rest on three things—a pleated shirt a black string tie and a white vest.

GAS-GUARDED.

The Equitable Safe Deposit Co. New York has a four story, ten million-pound vault. It rests on rock 50 feet below street level. That isn't all. When the metal surrounding this chamber is subjected to the kind of acetylene torch used by high powered safe crackers a gas will be thrown off which will kill a man or men before they know what it's all about. That vault is nothing to be sniffed at.

Strange that men go to such lengths to guard their material wealth and take such chances with greater possessions—reputation and character for example.

Virtue is literally its own reward and unless you appreciate the inner satisfaction of knowing that you are a great soul you had better not try it.

FREE OF STOMACH MISERY AND GLAD HE GOT KONJOLA

"It Is Wonderful", He Says; Completely Restored His Health In Every Way

MR. ELMER E. COOPER

It was predicted less than three weeks ago that the people of New Castle would very quickly find out about the merits of this celebrated new medicine, Konjola, which the Konjola Man is introducing and explaining in person to large crowds each day at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington street, New Castle.

Report after report is being received from men and women of this city, describing the remarkable benefits derived from the use of this surprising new compound. For instance, just a few days ago, Mr. Elmer E. Cooper, R. R. No. 1, this city, made the following statement:

"Konjola is wonderful", said Mr. Cooper, "It has restored my health in every way, and I feel it is only right to indorse such a medicine to the public.

"My trouble started about twenty years ago with awful stomach trouble. My condition became worse as each month passed, and I seemed to be dragging through life half-sick all the time. Sharp indigestion pains would come over me after every meal. What little food I managed to eat would cause intense misery. I would bloat up with gas, that pressed against my heart making it palpitate and flutter so much I often thought it would stop beating. I began losing several days work and finally a severe attack of lumbago compelled me to give up my position entirely. Terrible backaches and dizzy spells kept me in constant misery. I never could sleep like other people and most of the time I would lie awake, suffering from awful pains.

"That was exactly my condition before I found Konjola, but since I have taken this medicine, everything is different. In a few days I had more energy and seemed to have new feelings of health in general. My appetite is wonderful and no matter what I eat, there is not a sign of indigestion. The bloating spells never come over me and the pains around my heart are completely ended. I have returned to work as the lumbago disappeared soon after I started taking Konjola. My health is so much better I hardly know what to make of it. My wife was also benefited by Konjola. She had a severe case of neuritis and stomach trouble that made it almost impossible for her to move around the house. She took Konjola the same time as myself and now every touch of neuritis and stomach trouble is gone.

"Yes, Konjola completely ended my health troubles, and I am feeling like a different person entirely. I gladly indorse this medicine because I know what it will do."

The Konjola Man is at the Love & Megown drug store, 204 East Washington St., New Castle, where he is daily meeting the public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. Free samples given.

WHY KINGFISHER IS PROUD OF HIS BEAK

Peter looked thoughtfully at the bird.

"When you know about things, what a difference it makes! I don't think your bill is a bit funny now that I have found out what you can do with it. What makes it so scarred, though?" Peter leaned forward and looked carefully at his friend's beak. "Why, Kingfisher! How did you hurt yourself so? Your beak from the tip of it to the base is covered with tiny little holes!"

"Well, your beak would be all scratched up, too, if you had dug out as much gravel and stones as I have in my life."

Kingfisher closed one eye and squinted along his bill. "Every mark means just so much accomplished. That is another reason why I am proud of this beak of mine! Never, no matter how deep the sand nor how sharp the pebbles, has my beak failed me yet."

"Why in the world don't you dig for bugs in smooth ground? Surely you could find plenty to eat without searching in such rough places. Besides I thought that you lived almost altogether on fish. Didn't you say so only a little while ago? Peter asked, curiously.

"Who mentioned anything about digging for bugs? I dig—yes— and dig hard, but not for anything to eat. After getting my dinner as easily as you saw me today—a dive, a toss and down goes a nice fat fish without a bit of trouble—do you think I'd waste my strength and time grubbing in the ground as do some of the other poor birds who couldn't make a 'catch' to save their necks? Not I, indeed! I have scarred my beak tunnelling out our home."

Kingfisher raised his wings and flapped them proudly.

"I don't understand at all what you mean by tunnelling out your home. Don't you Kingfishers live in nests like the other birds I have met?"

Kingfisher smiled and shook his crested head.

"No," declared he. "We Kingfishers do not live in nests, at least not the kind of nests you have seen in trees, nor does any kind two-legs build us a mansion such as some of the feathered folk are fortunate to have given to them—the wren, for instance. We work hard to make our own home, and when we have finished, it is just the sort of a house that is to our liking you can be sure of that.

"Kingfishers prefer a bank of sandy soil to trees, and when they have found exactly the soil that is stiff enough not to cave in, Kingfisher and his wife begin their burrowing."

"Where is your home?" The boy looked curiously about. "Is it near?"

Just then Peter's question was answered and in an unexpected way.

"Hubby, dear, a stone has dropped right near the nest. Do come and carry it out."

Peering about for the speaker the boy saw a bird peeping out of a hole in the bank, just a short distance away.

Continue Services On Sunday Evening At St. Mary's Church

Devotions for the Fifth Sunday evening, of the Lenten season in St. Mary's church, corner North and North Beaver streets, will begin with vespers at 7:45 o'clock. The Lenten speaker will be the Rev. V. V. Stancelewski, pastor of Saints Philip and James church, Hanna and Chartes streets, this city. He will have as his subject "The Divinity and Humanity of Christ." Father Stancelewski is a speaker of ability and his topic and his address will be in keeping with the high standard of Sunday evening sermons that have marked the very successful Lenten season services in the new St. Mary's church.

The choir of St. Mary's church will render special music and Thomas Martin will sing Ava Maria by Loesch. Holy Hour on next Wednesday evening will be conducted by Rev. J. Dudley Nee. His subject will be The Confession."

"A prophet is not without honor, except in his own country" it has been most fittingly said. In confirming this statement, it might be well at this time to acquaint the people of the city with regard to the work of Rev. V. V. Stancelewski in this community since he first came here. It is doubtful, if there are many who realize just what he has accomplished in the short space of time that he has been here.

It would be an agreeable surprise for anyone to visit Hanna and Chartes streets in the Eighth ward. Five years ago, this visit would have been of no interest, unless one is interested in pasture lands, but today his eyes will be greeted with the sight of a beautiful tapestry brick Gothic church capable of seating eight hundred and fifty people and a modern rectory. The valuation of this plant is approximately $150,000. This work of organizing a new parish and erecting these buildings has been accomplished in less than six years. The city of New Castle has been benefited, not only by this building program but also by the moral force made possible by the creation of a new congregation. The director of this movement is the Rev. V. V. Stancelewski, pastor of Saints Philip and James Polish Catholic church.

Rev. V. V. Stancelewski was born August 2, 1894 in Pittsburgh, Pa. He took his grade school training in Holy Trinity school, Lawrenceville, Pittsburgh. He entered Duquesne University in 1907 and on completing the college course with an A. B. degree, went to St. Vincent Seminary, Beatty, Pa. to study for the priesthood. He was ordained Christmas, 1919. His first appointment was to Rev. Francis Baczewski, then pastor of St. Michael's church, Moravia street and now pastor of Madonna Czenstochowa church, Oakland. He served two years and eight months at St. Josaphat church, South Side, Pittsburgh.

When the Catholic Polish people of New Castle petitioned the Bishop for a church of their own, Rev. V. V. Stancelewski was sent to undertake this work. This was on August 13, 1922, and the congregation of Saints Philip and James began to take its part in the religious and social activities of the city.

Lang of Pittsburgh drew the plans for the church and the General Contractor Thomas Boyle of Scott street, this city, started work on the foundation. Stone was procured from the old piers of the Gardner avenue bridge. Local firms assisting were the

REV. V. V. STANCELEWSKI

Penn Coal and Supply Company, Citizen's Lumber company and The Pearson Brick company. The first mass was celebrated in the basement Christmas 1923. The cornerstone had been blessed by the Rt. Rev. Hugh Boyle, Bishop of Pittsburgh Diocese, the previous May. The rectory was completed Thanksgiving 1923. While the work on the basement of the church was going on, the congregation held their devotions in St. Michael's church, Moravia streets.

Work on the superstructure was begun and the first service was held Christmas morning, 1924. An eight grade school was opened in the basement by the Holy Ghost Sisters, a community of sisters, whose Motherhouse is located at Westview, Pittsburgh, Pa. The present enrollment is 305. This was started in September 1924.

The interior of the church has now been completed and a new pipe organ installed. The formal dedication and blessing of the church by the bishop will take place some time in June.

The parishioners assisted not only in the financial way but presented themselves in their free time and assisted in the common labor required. The parish numbers 1,400 souls. The parish boasts of a Holy Name Society, Rosary society, Children of Mary Sodality, Sick and Death Benefit Society.

The church committee is composed of the following: J. Boczar, J. Kurdupski, G. Orlowski, S. Przybylski, J. Jansza, C. Gorzewski and J. Labecki.

The organist and director of the choir is Marie A. Dutkiewicz, a pupil of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Browne Patterson. The members of the choir (mixed) are: M. Melcer, J. Carczewski, S. Dlugokenski, A. Golba, M. Dudek, A. Pszenny, M. Kurdupski, M. Walukiewicz, H. Pszenny, J. Komincz, J. Golba and S. Melcer.

Thde public is invited to attend the Sunday evening Lenten services and hear the pastor of this most interesting parish of the city.

Highway Accidents Total 26,618 Deaths

Serious Injury To 798,700 Persons Shows Increase Of 5.2% Over 1926

Highway accidents took a toll of 26,618 lives during 1927, the American Road Builders' association stated today. The estimates made public include serious injury to 798,700 persons and an economic loss for the year totalling $672,097,000. The eccnomic loss does not include minor damage to motor vehicles or accident insurance premiums.

The highway accident figures are based on an increase of 5.2 percent over 1926. The American Road Builders' association reported 25,302 persons killed in that year, in addition to 759,500 seriously injured. The increase of 5.2 percent was shown in a progress report assembled by the Bureau of Census.

Grade crossing fatalities show a decrease for the first eleven months of 1927, the number of persons killed totalling 2,120 as compared with 2,244 for the same months of 1926. Grade crossing fatalities in 1926 had increased from 2,206 in 1925. The continued increase in the number of highway accidents has caused the American Road Builders' association to renew its efforts toward bringing organizations interested in the problem into closer co-ordination.

"The unfortunate increase in highway accidents makes imperative an immediate adoption of uniform traffic codes, and an expansion of the nation's road building programs," officials of the association declared. "The human factor is the main element contributing to these accidents, but that human factor could to a large extent to offset by adequate motoring facilities and regulation, coupled with the individual practice of courtesy and caution."

Some News, Some Views, But Mostly Just Observations Of Interesting Things Around New Castle

Just to be sure I didn't miss any of the good things of the automobile show I went back last night. Perhaps there was a vague hope that some dealer would ask me to drive out a sedan "on the house" but after walking around the exhibits until nearly closing time not a one even suggested it.

The show closes tonight and the automobile dealers of the city can be proud of their show. Few shows in this state surpassed, at least in cities of anything near the population. The Harrisburg show of 1927 was not to be compared to it, and the Pittsburgh show was just larger, that's all.

The New Castle show couldn't be any larger for the exhibits took up all the space in the ballroom and dining rooms of the cathedral. It was a ringtailed success and everybody should be satisfied.

Dog owners and young fathers have much in common, they are willing to talk of the pride of their life at the slightest provocation. Joe Williams is no exception and Joe will talk dog at any time, any place, and under any conditions.

Joe has a champion dog, Gayboy, a double champion in fact for Gayboy won the National Amateur championship at the field trials and is the National Grouse champion. And Joe is proud of Gayboy, justly so. Gayboy probably has a price but just offhand I couldn't think of any price that would induce Joe to part with him.

That mail box in front of the postoffice is a handy thing if you have a letter to mail and are driving by. Wonder if Postmaster Crawford would accept a suggestion? If the letter slot was larger, say about the size of a package slot, it would be a simple trick to lean out the car window and drop a letter in, almost without stopping. And would save parking on North street.

Rex Patch is back from Florida and customers you really should see the shirt he brought back with him. If Florida sunsets were blue this would be a picture of a sunset or if the shirt were golden in color the same result would be accomplished. The first glance leaves one gasping and the second acts as a local anasthetic. But the shirt is really a darb.

Fred L. Rentz also got back today, with his wife and Mr. and Mrs. Bill Ferver. If there is anything they missed between Tampa, Florida and the postoffice in New Castle, it isn't on the map.

Indoor Picnic Is Enjoyed By P. H. C.

Members Have Tureen Dinner And Most Enjoyable Program At Hall

With every indication of a very successful affair, the tureen dinner and indoor picnic, held by New Castle Circle No. 5, P. H. C. on Thursday night was largely attended by members of the order but guests from district circles helped to make the event a red letter night in No. 5.

The dinner held at 6:30 was excellent the dining room of the circle chamber just filled with the fraternalists who enjoyed the choice menu served.

The session following was a busy one with initiatory ceremonial and general work of the circle disposed of a new membership campaign was launched. With Pianist Catharine Badger and Past President Leonard E. Dandy as team captains pleasant rivalry between these prominent members will result with many new members added to the circle roll.

Guardian Helen Ray presided thruout the program for the evening. Deputy R. M. Mitchell, of Beaver Falls gave a snappy address as did also Supreme Auditor Dr. R. G. Baird and Ralph Johnson of Sharon.

Among the features of the indoor picnic was the readings of John A. Beatty of Freedom, and the vocal numbers of Dave Tucker accompanied by Bill Jones who can certainly tickel the strings of a banjo. All sorts of amusing games kept the crowd in good humor until a late hour and prizes were awarded as follows:—

Peanut Race—Mrs. Frances Maden.
Cracker Race—Mrs. Frank Kennedy.
Horse Race—J. L. LaRue.
Paper Bag Race—Frank Kennedy.
Egg Race—Florence White.
Nickel Race—Lester Langsdale and Belle Kennedy.
Pony Race—Florence White.

On Wednesday evening, March 28, under the auspicies of the Booster club another of their successful card parties will be held with prizes awarded and refreshments a later feature.

LILLIE B. JONES, Secretary.

HOUSEHOLD HINTS

BY MRS. MARY MORTON

MENU HINT

The old custom of making the home the center of the New Year's festivities has largely gone out of date. The cabaret and hotels generally are the scenes of modern celebrations. It might be a good idea to revive the custom of past generations, substituting harmless fruit punches, tea and coffee for pre-prohibition beverages. Cakes of various kinds should be served with the drinks, and in case you didn't make a fruit cake for Christmas (or it was all eaten) I will include a recipe to serve on your New Year's "at home."

Sandwiches Assorted Cakes
Tea Coffee Fruit Punch
Candies Nuts

Today's Recipes

Sandwiches—Nut and raisin, date and nut, water cress, cream cheese, pimento cheese, marmalade jam and jelly sandwiches are all nice to serve. The refreshments may be served in the living room as the guests seat themselves, a small table or tea wagon should be set with the tea and coffee pots, cream, sugar, lemon slices, cups and saucers and plates of sandwiches and cake. The punch bowl may be on another small table with the accompanying cups.

Simple Fruit Cake—One cup sugar, one-half cup shortening, three eggs, one-quarter cup molasses, one teaspoon each cinnamon, allspice, one-half teaspoons nutmeg and cloves, one-half cup milk, one cup raisins, one cup currants, one cup of candied peel cut fine, one cup seeded, chopped dates, one cup chopped figs, one cup nutmeats. Flour to make a stiff batter. Bake very slowly.

Gold Cake—One cup sugar, one-half cup butter, three whole eggs, one-half cup milk, two teaspoons baking powder, two teaspoons lemon extract, two small cups sifted flour. Beat butter and sugar to a cream. Bake in layers with boiled frosting between and on top, the top to be decorated with mahaschino cherries.

Florists have gone on strike up in Chicago and gangsters may have to be buried without so many flowers for a while.

SAVE SYSTEMATICALLY

If you are 22 and will save $10 a month you can have $30,000 when you are 68.

Ten dollars a month saved systematically with the New Castle Mutual will grow into $30,000 by the time you are 68 years old and that means a monthly income of $150.00 for you in your old age.

Let us explain this simple plan of systematic savings. The New Castle Mutual way.

Here's Where 20 Miles an Hour Imperils Youngsters

While motoring at a speed of twenty miles an hour through residential districts usually is safe and sane driving, there are times when it is dangerous to go faster than a snail's pace. The above scene depicts a situation which is not uncommon in many communities. Of course, children shouldn't have to use the streets in which to have a good time and nearby playgrounds should be provided for them. But because boys and girls don't belong in traffic thoroughfares is no excuse for motorists failing to be careful. Nobody wants to kill a child just because it is in the way. And the fact that a youngster was run down while being where it didn't belong will not lessen the injury to the victim, lighten the grief or expense of the parents or ease the conscience of the motorist. A timely statement issued by W. H. Cameron, Managing Director of the National Safety Council, cautions motorists to exercise more care, urges parents to make sure their youngsters don't frolic in the streets and asks city officials to plan now to provide adequate playgrounds in their respective communities.

Night Classes In The Local Schools Start Next Week

All Local Schools To Conduct Classes In Evenings For Visitors Here

ELLWOOD CITY, March 24.—Upon request of the board of education, Supt. W. Ray Smith has arranged for certain nights during the next month to be set aside for night school in the local institutions. The following explains the project in detail and was sent to the various teachers by Supt. Smith:

The board of education has asked us to have evening sessions in school this year as we have had in past years. We have arranged for the evening classes as follows:

North Side and West End schools—Monday evening, March 26.

Hartman and Circle schools—Monday evening, April 2.

Central and Lincoln schools—Monday evening, April 16.

A regular program of classes should be conducted the same as during the day from 7 to 8:30 o'clock. We will have three 30-minute periods. We will not have school during the afternoon because the evening sessions will take the place of the afternoon sessions. We should have recitation periods and not have study periods.

All pupils are expected to be present during the evening sessions. Pupils who live out of town must be present if at all possible for them to get home.

Each teacher and principal should use all her influence in getting patrons out. Try to get children to bring their parents with them. Please stress this point: Letters should be prepared in the English department for the parents, extending a special invitation to them, urging them to be present to see the work that the boys and girls are doing and to meet the teachers. The office will prepare such a letter for grades 1 and 2 and will get them to the principals in time for them to be sent home with the children in these grades.

Each principal is asked to have a guard at the doors and not admit any school pupils from other schools unless they accompany their parents. We should like to have these guards count all the visitors. It would be well to have a few ushers on the job to assist visitors. It would be well for the principal to arrange with the chief of police to have a patrolman about the grounds to prevent any unnecessary disturbance.

It is also suggested that we have a large cardboard directory in a conspicuous place in the lower hall listing the teachers, subjects and rooms and that a card about 8x10 be placed on or about the door of each room giving teacher's name, period, subject, room, etc. It would be well to have considerable of the pupils' work exhibited for these sessions.

Teachers and principals may spend the afternoon they are having night school as they like. However, if we are having institute the afternoon that your school is having evening session you are expected to attend the institute. I would suggest that you visit as many of the other evening classes as convenient.

DIETRICH SERVICES

ELLWOOD CITY, March 24.—Funeral services for Mrs. Susie Dietrich, whose death occurred at her home Wednesday after an illness of several weeks, were held from her late home, No. 325 Orchard avenue, this afternoon.

The service was conducted by Rev. L. S. Beisecker of Pittsburgh, former pastor of the First Lutheran church of this city.

To Vote On $100,000 Bond Issue For School In Mahoning Township

Proposed Division Of Township Held In Abeyance Pending Election

If Bond Issue Passes 20-Room Building Will Be Erected In Hillsville

There is a truce between the northern and southern halves of Mahoning township over the proposed division into two townships, with the Mahoning river as the dividing line. Petition for division was presented in court not long ago, owing to differences of opinion regarding the erection of a new consolidated school building in Hillsville.

The people of Hillsville and vicinity, in the southern part of the township, wanted the school building. Those in the northern half opposed it or were lukewarm. When it looked as though the voters of the northern half might defeat a proposed bond issue, those in the southern half proposed a division of the township and asked the court for opportunity to vote on the matter.

Before any order for the vote was made there appeared to be a change of sentiment in the northern half, many voters assuring those interested in the southern half that they would go along on a bond issue, provided another bond issue was voted later for the erection of a school building in the northern section.

The outcome of the matter has been that on April 24th, the date of the spring primary, the whole township will vote on a proposed bond issue of probably $100,000 for the erection of a consolidated school building at Hillsville. Meanwhile the proposed division of the township will be held in abeyance.

According to County Superintendent of Schools John C. Syling, if a bond issue carries a 20-room building with gymnasium and auditorium will be erected at Hillsville. There are at present 12 school rooms at Hillsville. Two other schools, of two rooms each, would be eliminated by the erection of the new building, which would mean that 16 of the proposed 20 rooms would be used from the start.

It would not be convenient for residents of the northern half of the township to send pupils to a school in Hillsville, hence it has been proposed that if the people in the northern half go along on the bond issue for the southern half, the southern half will go along with the northern half later in the erection of a building. It is believed that the matter can be satisfactorily worked out without resorting to a division of the township.

Takes 10,000 Loaves Of Bread Daily For Pa Newc's Family

Every day in New Castle a total of nearly 10,000 loaves of bread are used, according to an estimate made recently. That would mean nearly two miles of bread if the loaves were placed end to end and if placed side by side they would cover a good part of a city block.

White bread is the kind that is most commonly used in New Castle, 73 per cent of the bread used being white bread, yet 20 per cent of the bread used in this city is rye bread and 2¾ per cent is whole wheat bread. Each person eats an average of about 2½ loaves of bread a week. Rolls are not used nearly as much as loaves of bread for the people of New Castle eat an average of only one roll a month.

Only about one-fourth of the bread used in the city is baked in the homes, the other three-fourths being bought directly or indirectly from the bakeries. Bread baked in the bakeries of New Castle is used not only in the homes of New Castle but daily bread trucks take bread to neighboring towns and as far north as Sharon and south to Beaver Falls.

Unusual Coincidence In Family Names

Former New Castle Family Of Same Name As Mentioned Resides In Pittsburgh

An unusual coincidence was brought out in a letter from Mrs. Richard P. Hill of Pittsburgh, concerning an item appearing in The News of a recent issue regarding a family quarrel in Pittsburgh in which a man and wife of the same names and age as Mr. and Mrs. Hill were landed in a hospital.

On account of the similarity of names, the same ages, and the residence being in Pittsburgh, Mrs. Hill writes to correct any erroneous impression that may have been conveyed to the people of New Castle where Mr. Hill and his wife, Mrs. Marie G. Hill, formerly lived.

Mr. and Mrs. Hill were in Harrisburg during the past month where he was attending a State Inspectors Conference. Thus The News is glad to print a statement of this unusual coincidence of names so that no incorrect impression may be left in the minds of its readers.

Local Business Men To Make Plane Trip To Cleveland, Ohio

Pilot Says Arrangements Are Made For Numerous Trips In Local Plane

Several Student Fliers Are Also Scheduled; See Real Airport Here

If weather conditions permit A. C. McCoy, president of the New Castle Automobile Dealers' association, and W. W. Pattison will make a business trip to Cleveland soon in Jack Crowl's new airplane, the "Pride of New Castle," now at the auto show, is was announced this morning by Ed Schultz pilot who is in charge of the machine.

"Aside from the Cleveland trip we have made many bookings for shorter hauls," Mr. Schultz continued. "And already we have two student flyers who are ready to take lessons as soon as the field dries up sufficiently to warrant preliminary ground work.

"Yes, I am glad that I came to New Castle and I believe that it will soon be a thriving airport. We have all advantages here to make it such."

Although he speaks to the patrons of the New Castle automobile show without any hesitancy Mr. Schultz is particularly reticent about giving any of his personal history. "After all" he says, "it does not matter much. Yes, I was in the war, but really I would rather that you would not mention that."

However, the reporter learned that Mr. Schultz made his first flight from Mineola field, Long Island in 1912. In 1914 he started as a pilot at Mineola. And he also has the unique distinction of having one of the first pilot's licenses ever issued dated July 26, 1916 ,and given by the Federatione Areonatique Internationale.

Mr. Schultz is very enthusiastic about his ship. "It will outperform all other planes of its class," he says, "and in every other sort of a contest. One of the same sort of planes was entered in the New York-Spokane air derby last year and although it was forced out of the race on the first day with a burned out magneto yet it managed to finish ninth.

"From Kansas City to Youngstown it took only nine hours and 40 minutes. This I believe proves its speed although it is officially rated as capable of doing 100 miles an hour.

"One of the unique features on our machine which is usually found only on larger planes is the automatic stabilizor. And I can say that there is a great improvement shown over the old army 'jennies" in which much of the barnstorm flying is being done. But soon they will all be gone and then the area of safe airplane will be here."

Lake Erie Ice Is Breaking Up, Reports Show

ERIE, Pa., March 24.—Early opening of navigation on all of the lakes is predicted in the report of ice conditions for the Great Lakes, by the United States weather bureau.

The initial trip of the passenger line between Detroit and Cleveland was made Wednesday. Ice fields have practically disappeared from the west end of Lake Erie and are breaking up over the east end and drifting with the winds, the moving fields extending east beyond Dunkirk.

According to the report of the government bureaus of the United States and Canada, Lake Superior has 29 inches of ice in Duluth-Superior harbor, with ice extending beyond vision over most of the lake. Escanaba harbor, Lake Michigan, has 23 inches of ice covered with slush, with no field reported along the west shore of this lake, and ice softening at Menominee and broken up and disappearing at Green Bay.

The east end of the Straits filled with ice, and 22 inches of ice at Perry Sounds, are reports from Lake Huron. The St. Clair river ice is reported softening with open water at Marysville, St. Clair and Marine City.

Considerable broken ice is reported in Lake St. Clair, the ice running into Detroit river during the week. In Lake Ontario, the ice fields are confined to the extreme east end of the lake, with the ice softening rapidly at Ogdensburg.

Trade School Boys Visit Show

Trade School Lads Are Especial Guests At Auto Show Friday Afternoon

Although afternoons are usually considered bad for almost every sort of show, yet Friday afternoon at the New Castle automobile show, which is taking place in the ball and dining rooms of the Scottish Rite cathedral, is the exception which proves the rule.

Augmented by a class of 50 from the New Castle trade school, the attendance for the afternoon was almost as good as Thursday evening, the opening night.

Special demonstrations given to the automobile classes of the trade school formed the features. A. W. Koch showed them the points of interest of the sleeve valve motor, while J. H. Gibson explained another type motor to the boys.

Because of other arrangements, another program of entertainment was presented.

"Yes, the show is much better than we expected," declared L. C. King, head of entertainment. "All of the exhibitors deserve a lot of credit for the way that they got behind and pushed."

Work Progresses On East Brook Road

Detour Not Yet Established But Detour Route Being Ashed

Construction work on the East Brook-Volant concrete road continues at the cut just beyond East Brook. Although the work with the steam shovel has been suspended for a while on account of the bad condition of roads caused at the fill, yet work by hand grading and the installing of concrete culverts and drains continues.

The road which was nearly impassable last week on account of the rain on the new fill has been made entirely passable by digging out of the mud and the placing of ashes on the roadway.

With the spring weather next month it is expected to rush the work so that it should be well through by the middle of summer.

Although no detour has as yet been established, the township is having the old state road ashed between the East Brook U. P. church and the Harlansburg road so that by the time the detour is necessary there will be a road entirely ashed, available for detour.

One of the interesting facts gleaned from reading the news from the spring training camps is that the American league will award eight pennants this season.—The Detroit News.

Step into the Automobile

In Port Today

This day of March, 1928, Reo announces the 1929 Flying Clouds.

Reo can give you 1929 automobiles in the heart of the 1928 season for a very, very simple reason.

Reo is an independent organization and a producer of only a moderate number of cars. Refinements, changes, new ideas can be put into and through production faster than in the huge immobile plants from which come most of America's automobiles.

Reo blue prints can materialize in Reo cars many, many months sooner than do those of other reputable automobiles.

As a result, the New Reo Flying Clouds give you today what other cars may try to give you one year from today—in 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today a new fleetness, for one mile or one hundred, that will still be the envy of many cars—in 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the ability to sweep from zero miles per hour to what you will, faster than many cars will do even in 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the agility in traffic, and steering ease that other cars will try to develop—for 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today distinctive new lines, sweepingly simple lines, that some other manufacturer may imitate—by 1929.

The new Flying Clouds give you today luxurious interiors that someone else may copy—for 1929.

The New Flying Clouds give you today the riding ease that many cars will strive to have—for 1929.

The new Flying Clouds give you today the four-wheel internal expanding (not external contracting) hydraulic brakes that safety demands may force many other cars to adopt—in 1929.

These things can be yours in March, 1928, in the New Flying Clouds, for the very simple reason that Reo blueprints become Reo automobiles many months sooner than do those of other reputable cars.

Step into the 1929 automobile—the New Flying Cloud—and try it out yourself.

Types Of Figures

(By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN) Noted Beauty Expert

There are so many graduations in the large generality of proportions and weights that I hesitate to lay down definite rules. One of the most important things you must learn is to try not to fit yourself into wrong proportions, but to make the natural and correct proportions fit you.

In talking of types I am speaking of the sort of bodies we are "born with". There are natural tendencies, whether they be liabilities or assets, we cannot alter. The size of the body is determined by the bone structure. Scandinavians have large bones, and usually are exquisitely proportioned. Italians are small. Englishmen have longer necks and heads than Germans. Americans are taller than the French.

The types of American women can be basically divided into six divisions:

1. The ideal, well proportioned figure.
2. The tall, thin type (small bust and hips; long, thin neck; long, slender legs).
3. The tall, broad type (Junoesque type, usually of Norse ancestry; large boned, broad shouldered).
4. Angular, naturally thin, hollow chested, under weight.
5. Short stout, heavy bust and heavy hips.
6. Short thin, or petite figure, small bone and muscle development.

You may have to content yourself with being one of the less attractive types(but you can endeavor to be as close to perfect in that type as effort can make you. If you are naturally a big woman, recognize it, accept it, and live up to it. You can't make yourself small, and instead of being ashamed of your size or your height, learn to be proud of it. You are far more to be envied than the very small woman. Dignity can rest upon your head like a crown. You were built actually to be a leader. Don't crouch or slink, step out with the assurance you can wear so becomingly.

If you are small, you can't grow by the wishing! Make the very best of the inches you have. You cannot be dignified—don't try. You can be clever and naive.

If you are short and fat, you're probably a wholesome, merry-eyed, merry-souled sort of woman. You stand for comfort and companionship. Good food and warm houses—rest and security. Men like those things in women, as you probably know by this time.

Should you be thin and angular, you ought to develop modishness to the nth degree. You have to wear "lines". You can't pick hats because they are pretty. They must be smart and swagger. You will look wonderful in sports clothes, and you should cultivate sophistication and wit. Take the attributes nature has endowed you with, and capitalize them. It is much more simple and efficacious to walk with that capricious lady than against her.

Don't think the other woman's charms are so enviable. Big hands are fine hands if they are well kept, well groomed. A dark skin can have a charm all its own. It would be wonderful if we were all as perfect as Aphrodite as she rose from the foam, but we're not—and perhaps even on high Olympus she had moments of envy for the small, lithe grace of Psyche.

Accept what you have, add to it the nice things you can make of yourself, and you and the world will be charmed with the woman you will be.

Chemists shops in London are offering "sunshine wrapped up in pill." But wait until they can buy moonshine that way!—The Flint Daily Journal.

Golden Rule Applied to the Payment of Bills

If the Dentist waited three months before filling your aching tooth,

If the Grocer didn't deliver your groceries for sixty days,

If the Coal man let you freeze and sent your coal two months late, you wouldn't like it, and we wouldn't blame you.

The same thing holds good when you buy goods and do not pay for them until ninety days or more.

Your merchant, doctor, or dentist or the business firms you deal with feel, just like you would feel, if the above questions applied to a personal experience, when they look over their books and find your account is delinquent.

Did you ever dodge up a side street or turn your head away when you saw a person coming that you owed money to?

The prompt payer has an easy conscience.

Bootlegger Is Given Term Of Three Years

Leniency and severity were mixed Friday afternoon when Judges R. Lawrence Hildebrand and James A. Chambers sat in sentence court in court room number one of the Lawrence county court house. At least one offender drew the full limit of the law while others were paroled.

Guiseppe di Dovato, who was caught by Officer Criswell with 45 gallons of liquid headaches was fined $50.00 and costs and was given three years to the Allegheny county workhouse, the limit. This is one of the few, perhaps the only bootlegger who was ever given the full limit of the law." The court decided that his offense was such that no leniency was deserved.

Murphy On Probation

Alonzo Murphy who was caught in the back room of the M. & D Radio shop by City Detective John Young was put on probation for five years. Murphy said to the court that he had had a change of heart since the crime, that he had experienced a great spiritual change and in his behalf J. E. Owrey, a mission superintendent appeared and verified Murphy's statement. In putting Murphy on probation Judge Hildebrand said that he was going beyond ordinary leniency and that it was an unusual case to be disposed of. He said that the court would put Murphy on probation for five years but that if he was returned for any violation of his probation that sentence would then be passed for the recent offense.

Edna Taylor was fined $100.00 and costs and given 60 days to jail for possession of liquor. Thomas P. Anderson was fined $10.00 and costs and given three months in the county jail dating from February 24, 1928 for obtaining money under false pretense.

Tillie Casella was fined $100.00 and costs and given three months in jail for possession of liquor. Mary Mitchell was fined $100.00 and costs and given 6 months in the county jail for possession of liquor. George Cuynar was fined $300.00 and costs and paroled for 2 years for possession of liquor.

R. C. Murray was ordered to pay the costs of the case and pay his wife $10.00 a week on a charge of desertion. Ronald Kelly was ordered to pay the costs of the case and pay $3 per week for ten years towards the support of a child in an F & B case.

Casimire Hench was fined $200.00 and costs and paroled for two years for manufacturing and possessing liquor.

Government Regulations Greatly Improve Listener's Chance of Hearing Programs

Map shows the allocation of radio zones which are in effect under the new bill and will help to eradicate interference. Herbert Hoover (center) is largely responsible for these arrangements. Commissioners Pickard, Sykes, La Fount and Caldwell will see that the regulations are carried out.

(International Illustrated News)

By GRAHAM STEWART
International Illustrated News Staff Correspondent

Hounds for "DX."

Listen and you shall hear good news.

Allocations of radio zones will clear the air for you. Secretary Hoover is working out a plan of dividing the air and parceling it out in zones as long as there is enough to go around.

No longer will Woofus interfere with Whoosis when you are getting a slick program 100 miles from home.

The radio commission, which has been given a new lease on life through the new bill, will have absolute charge of all stations and keep them on their wave-length and within their power allowance.

Radio has become an important item in the home lives and the business of the country—too important to let a few grab off the cream. Therefore all these regulations will benefit the radio user.

It is the idea of Mr. Hoover and the commission to keep improving the air. They may even be able to take out some of the static if they keep at it long enough.

But, be that as it may, perhaps the commission will carry their efforts a few steps further and regulate some of the awful programs which are on the air.

Some of the near-tenors who yelp their love airs through the mike could be provided with mufflers.

So, more power to regulation of radio broadcasting. Anything which improves it should be supported.

Drunken Father Slain By Son To Save His Mother

Youth Thirteen Years Old Slays Father As Mother's Life Is Endangered

(International News Service)

GOLDSBORO, N. C., March 24.—Tousled headed, 13-year old Woodrow Thompson played in the front yard with his younger brother today while preparations were made for the burial of his father, who was slain last night when Woodrow emptied the load of a shotgun into his back.

Woodrow, gun in hand walked into the room where his father was threatening his mother.

"Pray your last time and make it snappy," Grover T. Thompson, snarled at his cringing wife, who was on her knees pleading: "don't do it, Grover—please"; according to testimony given at the coroner's inquest.

Woodrow fired from close range and his father crumpled to the floor, instantly dead.

Coroner Tom R. Robinson made an investigation which resulted in a decision that the boy's action was justified.

Thompson, known in police circles as a habitual drunkard, was arrested recently for cruelty to his family, and at one time was confined to the ward for inebriates in the State hospital at Raleigh.

The sheriff's office said today no charge has been made against the boy.

Hundred Suspicious Characters Nabbed Following Robbery

Philadephia Police Arrest One Hundred In Round-Up Following Robbery

(International News Service)

PHILADELPHIA, March 24.—Nearly 100 suspicious characters were picked up in a city-wide roundup early today following the slaying of Max Harrison, 27, assistant manager of the Cross Keys theatre, West Philadelphia, and the probable fatal wounding of Miss Martha Yetter, 17, a patron of the theater, by four bandits who attempted to rob the former of $700 which he was taking to a neighboring bank.

The theft was foiled by Policeman John Clark who engaged in a gun battle with the quartet as patrons of the theatre cowered in terror within the entrance.

Miss Yetter collapsed from bullet wounds as the bandits opened fire without warning. She is in a critical condition in Misericordia hospital. Physicians performed three blood transfusion operations on her this morning.

Police will question Harry Goodman and Frank Ripka who were arrested in a downtown cafe after the shooting. Both men were armed.

Union Picketers Win First Tilt With Sheriff

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—Although deputies and State troopers were on the watch, striking coal miners apparently had won the first round of their controversy with Sheriff Robert H. Braun and more than 100 pickets at Treveskyn, went undisturbed.

While not admitting that his order that not more than eight pickets be used at each mine would not be enforced Sheriff Braun was noncommital when asked if he would order further arrests, and a truce appeared to have been declared.

Striking Miners Quite Healthy

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—Conditions in the camps of the striking miners are healthier today than under normal conditions, was the opinion expressed by Dr. C. R. Conover, state health officer speaking before the joint relief administration of Pittsburgh businessmen and clergymen.

Forced to live in the open air and subsisting on a diet of beans, flour, syrup and potatoes they are thriving he said.

Four women's organizations agreed during the conference to co-operate with the joint relief administration, the only function of which is said to be raising funds for relief work.

Report Shortage Of Radio Operators In Uncle Sam's Navy

Nation's Training Facilities Overtaxed By Rapid Radio Expansion

(International News Service)

WASHINGTON, March 24.—The United States is suffering a shortage of radio operators. The rapid expansion of commercial and military wireless communication systems during the last two years has overtaxed the nation's training facilities. The navy alone now has 334 vacancies in its normal peace-time force.

"With complements reduced to the minimum it is not possible to keep such complements filled," said Captain T. T. Craven, director of naval communications today in a plea to all fleet officers for intensive schooling of new operators.

The navy now has 2,750 radiomen in service.

So widespread and reliable has the naval wireless system become that general orders were issued today for the cancellation of all naval code addresses registered with commercial cable companies.

Direct high-frequency communication between Arlington station here and naval vessels in Chinese waters is now regularly operative under favorable weather conditions.

Several clubs, covered with blood, were found near the body. There were footprints behind several haymows, leading county detectives to believe that a gang had lain in wait for Stamovich and had pounced upon him early this morning.

Postoffices Are To Be Combined

Aliquippa And Woodlawn Postoffices Are Being Merged

By GEORGE H. MANNING
(Washington Correspondent of The News)

WASHINGTON, D. C., March 24.—The plan to consolidate the Woodlawn and Aliquippa postoffices under the name of Aliquippa has been approved by the Post Office Department.

The Department is now working out details of the merger and as soon as this work is finished the consolidation will be effective.

The present Woodlawn office will become the main station under the plan and the present Aliquippa office will become a branch station.

At the present time the Civil Service Commission is receiving application for the postmastership at Woodlawn which was vacated when Robert C. Simpson was removed several weeks ago. The last date for receiving applications from candidates is April 10 and it will probably be several weeks after that date before the Commission will be able to certify a list of eligibles. Meanwhile, upon recommendation of Congressman J. Howard Swick of Beaver Falls, W. R. Troxall will remain as acting postmaster. In the event the Department is able to complete the consolidation before an appointment can be made, he will undoubtedly become acting postmaster of the merged Aliquippa station.

The old Aliquippa station will lose its identity entirely through the consolidation and will become a branch in charge of a superintendent under the supervision of the main station. The charge therefore will bring the position of head of the branch station under the classified civil service. Sarah B. Patton, now postmaster of the Aliquippa office, will be required to meet civil service requirements or retire, the Department stated in approving the merger.

Postmaster Patton's term expires on December 17, 1928 and she will probably be permitted to remain until that time irrespective of her civil service status. Congressman Swick has asked that she be retained.

The towns of Woodlawn and Aliquippa voted to consolidate as one community in a special election held on January 24th last. While Woodlawn is by far the larger of the two postoffices, the vote favored the adoption of Aliquippa as the official name of the community and the postoffice naturally adopted the name of Aliquippa.

Objections Filed To Will Of Late Rudolph Valentino

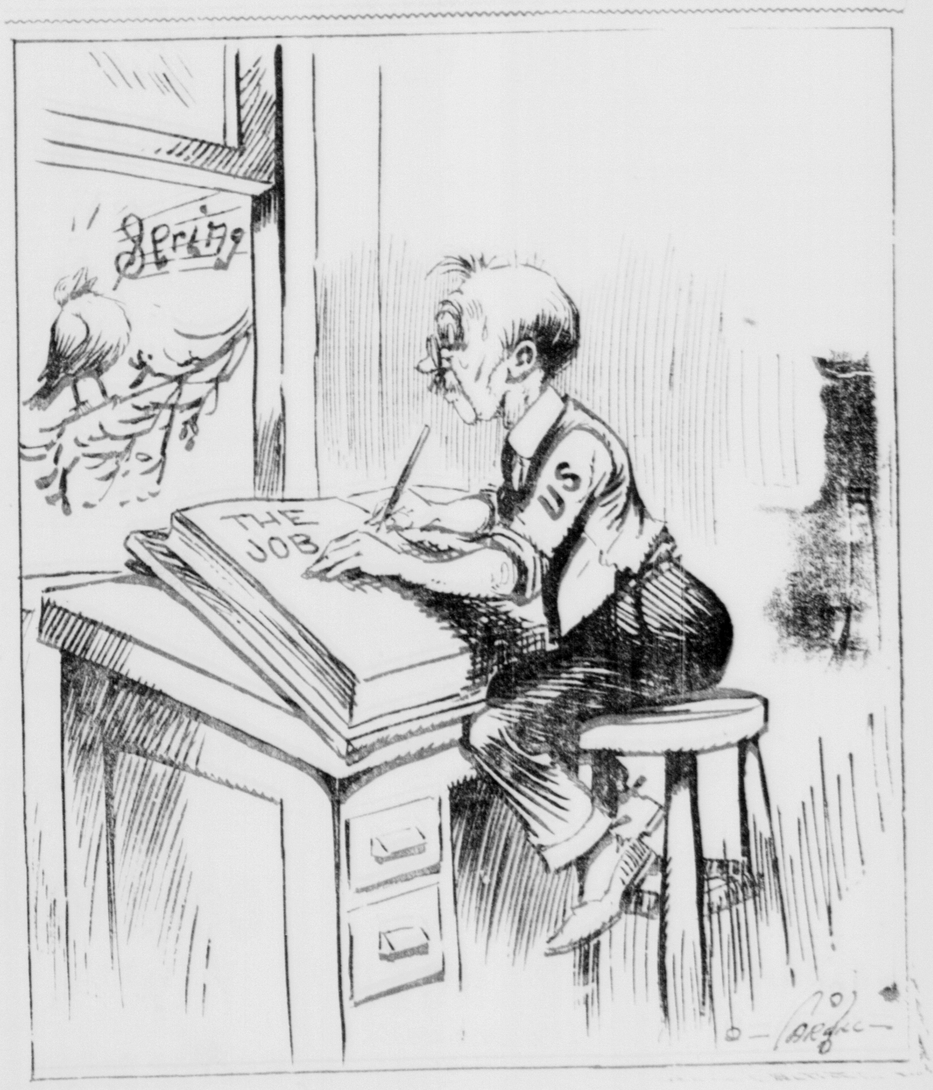

(International News Service)

LOS ANGELES, 24.—Objections to the first annual accounting of the estate of the late Rudolph Valentino, motion picture actor, were on file in superior court here today.

Snowbound

AFTER THE THEFT OF HIS PROVISIONS AND FIRE-ARMS BY SIOUX INDIANS, BILLY CODY WAS IN DESPERATE STRAITS. THE REDSKINS HAD ONLY LEFT HIM A LITTLE VENISON AND, BECAUSE THEY HAD TAKEN ALL HIS MATCHES, HE WAS OBLIGED TO KEEP THE FIRE BURNING DAY AND NIGHT.

THEN CAME THE BIG SNOWS, BURYING THE LITTLE DUGOUT BENEATH THE DRIFTS. THROUGH AN OPENING IN ONE WALL OF THE RUDE SHELTER, BILLY SCOOPED UP THE SNOW IN A CUP AND MELTED IT FOR DRINKING WATER.

AT NIGHT THE WOLVES, MADDENED BY HUNGER, HOWLED OUTSIDE, AND THE BOY COULD HEAR THEM SCRATCHING ON THE ROOF AND PAWING AT THE SIDES OF THE DUGOUT.

TWENTY-EIGHT NOTCHES, EACH REPRESENTING A DAY, HAD BEEN CUT ON THE STICK, WHEN BILLY HEARD A MUFFLED HAIL OUTSIDE AND PRESENTLY THE SCRAPE OF A SHOVEL AT THE DOOR.

Savoia Juniors End Successful Season, Gennock High Scorer

The Casa Savoia Juniors, one of the finest lightweight basketball teams in Lawrence county, recently closed their 1927-28 season with a victory over the Smiths. The Juniors won 25 games this year and were defeated in but one contest.

The Juniors in their first year of organization set up a fine record for the other junior lightweight teams to shoot at. The Juniors piled up a total of 666 points against 306 for their opponents. Much credit for the success of the Juniors is due to "Benny" Marino, Charles "Tippy" Richards and Coach Mike Mash.

The Savoia boys tallied 278 field goals and shot 108 out of 221 fouls, while their opponents were held to 112 field goals and made 82 out of 210 fouls. Marshall Ciotto, captain of the team, inspired a lot of pep and dash to the team on the court and was in a large measure responsible for the record attained by the Savoia Juniors.

E. Gennock was the high scorer on the team, with a total of 67 field goals, while Tex Richards and Scopio ranked second and third respectively. The Juniors can boast of the fact that they stand alone as the team that scored 28 field goals in one game this year; also the fact that they won 22 games in a row.

The following records on the season of 1927-28 were compiled by Sebastian Isabella, manager of the Casa Savoia Big Five and also vitally interested in the Junior team:

RUBY ROBERT HIMSELF — BY FEG MURRAY

Copyright, 1928, by Metropolitan Newspaper Service

Here is Robert Fitzsimmons, of Cornwall, England, former middleweight, light-heavyweight, and heavyweight champion of the world. Far be it from me, who was three years old when Fitz beat Jim Corbett at Carson City, Nev., to say that he was the greatest of all heavyweight champions, but if Dempsey is still willing to fight when he is around fifty, and if Dempsey will knock out two men of the ability of Gus Ruhlin and Tom Sharkey within two weeks' time, when he is 38, then I'll consider that Dempsey was Ruby Robert's equal. Never weighing more than 160 pounds, Bob fought 'em all except Peter Jackson, the negro, and if he was only alive now and in his prime, Tex Rickard wouldn't have to keep re-eliminating all his logical contenders in order to find a suitable opponent for Tunney. For the obvious reason, of course, that there'd be no Tunney. Fitz would kill him!

Seeking information on Robert Fitzsimmons, I turned to "'Ruby Robert', alias Bob Fitzsimmons"—by Robert H. Davis. Then I read "The Roar of the Crowd" by James J. Corbett, paying special attention to Gentleman Jim's account of his fight with Fitz. The contradicting statements are quite interesting. What can a man believe? Listen: From "Ruby Robert" —"Just before departing (to the fight) we weighed Bob, stripped, on a steel yard, than which there is no more accurate weighing device in the world. He tipped the scale at exactly one hundred and fifty-six and a half pounds."

From "The Roar of the Crowd"— "Our weights were 172 for Fitzsimmons, 180 for me," which may surprise some people today. . . . "Why I weighed Fitz myself, Jim' (this by Louis Hausman, Fitz's timekeeper) 'the day he fought you and he scaled a shade over 172.'" Corbett goes on to say of the battle, "I had bothered him by cutting his face to ribbons," and Mr. Davis writes, "William Muldoon . . . . . made a careful examination of the new champion's body (after the fight). Aside from the split lip, which antedated the fight by two weeks, and a red spot over his left kidney . . . there was no evidence that he had been in a prize ring." Jim Corbett goes on to tell how after the fight "Fitzsimmons was taken to his training quarters, and was unable to leave town for three days after my departure." Bob Davis says, "On March 18, 1897, at 7:35 P. M., the day after Fitzsimmons knocked out Corbett, we entrained out of the Carson City depot with the new champion on board."

There are many other differences in the two stories, both of which make most interesting reading. But good old Fitz doesn't care! He is immortal as far as the prize ring goes!

Feg Murray Says—

"Did you hear about Fitz K. O'ing Corbett?" asked a wise-cracker of his friend.

"No," was the answer, "my radio's broken."

Shop Boys Capture Swimming Meet At Ben Franklin Pool

The Shop boys swimming team was victorious in the swimming meet staged at the Ben Franklin Junior high pool on Friday afternoon March 23. The Shop boys finished with 35 points, Ninth grade with 27 points, Eighth grade with 2 points and the Seventh grade with six points.

The meet was staged under the supervision of Edwin H. Geasa swimming instructor at the Franklin pool, assisted by the student managers, Edward Kendra and Frances Ryder. The meet was one of the most successful of the year and the competition in the various races was quite keen. A fairly large crowd of students was present to cheer their favorites to victory.

Russell Grants was the high point scorer of the meet with a total of 12½ points, Harry Mooney was second highest scorer with a total of 11 points, Emery, Farone was third with 10½ points. The diving event was left out of the meet due to the fact that the Shop boys are making a new board.

The boys are showing quite an improvement according to Mr. Geasa and it will not be hard to select a team to take to the annual Pittsburgh meet later in the season.

Wampum Indies Top Clark Five 37-35

The Wampum Indies nosed out the strong Clark Five of Ellwood City 37 to 35 in a hard fought engagement the Shelby Tube mill floor on Friday night. The game was a preliminary to the Shelby Tube-Christy Park game.

The Indies maintained a fine lead at the end of the first quarter and at the end of the first half had a lead of 24 to 13. The Clark Five came to life in the third and fourth periods aid with a rush in the final few minutes of the game came within two points of deadlocking the count.

Boone, Hennon and Blythe the "Big Three" of the Wampum Indies crashed through with 15 baskets between them, to take the spotlight. For the Clark Five the work of Aiken with seven buckets was a feature. Labate also played a good game for the losers.

The summary:

Wampum Indies 37.		Clark Five 35.
Boone	F	Clyde
Hennon	F	Labate
Blythe	C	Aiken
Patterson	G	Marion
Ferrucci	G	J. MacMurdo

The Rick-Overlands will meet the championship team of the Shelby Tube mill of Ellwood City in the third game of the big triple program.

The "Y" Juniors and High School Reserves game should be a fast affair, with the following representing the high school: Richards, Kulich, McClelland, Johnson, Thomas and Cuba. The Juniors defeated the Reserves earlier in the year 20 to 16.

Crisp Won Title From Eddie Burl

Southern Bantamweight Champion To Meet Canton Boxer Here

DUTCH DRAKE TO BOX JIMMIE MILLS

By ED FRITZ

Harry Crisp, bantamweight champion of the south, who battles Carl Cavelli of Canton at the Old Armory Tuesday night, won his laurels by stopping Eddie Burl and should one scan his record they will discover that he has quite a knockout record.

Among his victims are Willie Young, Tony Farney, Doc Hurst, Joe Temmes, Battling Kid and Pete Reiveria and since hieing to the north has won from Andy Tomaskey, twice, drew with Steve Nugent, Joe Dienes, Al Dundee and Dave Adelman.

It is true that we do not know much about the southern boys but again true that local fans know considerable about Tomaskey, Nugent, Dundee and Adelman. The latter is the chap who has appeared in Pittsburgh and other rings and is a top-notcher.

AKRON FANS LIKE SOUTHERNER'S STYLE

Harry appeared recently in Akron and his fighting was so impressive that he fought three successive shows and any time the fans demand such it goes to show that the fighter must have something and we have been informed that he has that something in abundance.

Carl Cavelli, who lived years ago in New Castle, has been progressing in Ohio rings and has fought such chaps as Ki Goldman, Tony Leon and probably the best in this section, Willie Davies. We have been informed that Davies took the decision only after a hard fight.

EFFECT OF PUNCHES SHOWN BY KAPLAN

No fighter can let punches hit his chin without suffering for it and Jimmie Kaplan has found this out. Last Monday night he let Roy Minteer roll his eyes in his socket and the next night essayed to fight under the name of "Engle" at Warren. He was slow and listless and still sore from the night before.

Tuesday night he will come back here to box Minteer. Roy isn't a good boxer but he is aggressive, a good puncher and tough. Kaplan can box better than Roy but is not as tough nor can he hit as hard. The first bout resulted in a divergence of opinion among fans and officials and a knockout can settle the question for once and all time.

BASHFUL OSCAR TO BATTLE THE JANITOR

Bashful Oscar Gardner has been substituted for Johnny Slate against Petie Janis, the fighting janitor. Jimmie Dime, manager of Slate, wanted a four-round bout instead of six and Promoter Bill Jolly didn't like to cut the card. Slate will probably appear at some future show.

The bashful boy is not bashful about distributing punches or taking them and as Janis is a real broom-wielder it is probable he will figure that Bashful Oscar is to be swept aside and will try to turn the trick. Janis is not a scienced fighter and Oscar may be able to step right along with him.

FIRST BOUT MAY PRODUCE KNOCKOUT

Dutch Drake and Jimmie Mills, east side, will clash in the first preliminary. It will be their first appearance at the Old Armory and naturally many of their friends of the east side will be present to watch the melee. It wouldn't be surprising were a knockout to feature the first bout.

Outfield Problem Is Worry To Cleveland

Cleveland Indians Seek Young Centerfielder To Replace Tris Speaker

Roger Peckinpaugh At Helm Of Ohio Entry This Year May Bring Club Up

(International News Service)

NEW ORLEANS, March 24.—Midway between the 1926 and 1927 seasons the Cleveland Indians, having lost the pennant the year before on the final day of the season, suddenly were deprived of a great centerfielder and a successful mananger simultaneously. The loss couldn't have occurred in any other way because the manager and centerfielder happened to be one and the same man, Tristram Speaker himself.

It makes little difference that he no longer is a great outfielder and it may even be that he no longer is a good mananger. The point is that the Indians have yet to produce a man to succeed him in either position, as their surprising reversal of form in 1927 so clearly proved. And the replacement of Speaker in these two positions today remains one of the Indians' several problems as they approach the end of the training season.

Roger Peckinpaugh, hardy veteran of many a campaign, has come forward this year as the 1928 managerial hope of the Indians, and to his experience and judgment has been supplemented the acumen of Billy Evans, former umpire. Between them they should furnish the Indians with the drive and inspiration that featured Speaker's leadership. But the furnishing of a centerfielder, per so, is something else again.

Three Rookies

There are three young outfielders with the club today who give some indication that the Indians may have better protection in centerfield this season than was the case in 1927. They are, named in the order of their status with the management, Ed. Morgan, a college sensation who comes up from the New Orleans club; George Gerkin, back from Milwaukee, and Johnny Gill, up from Shreveport.

Morgan is the favorite with Peckinpaugh because of his hitting. He batted up around .360 with the Pelicans last year and qualified observers declare that he will hit any time and anywhere. He, however, has displayed rather marked outfielding faults, especially on balls hit over his head. Gerkin probably is a more finished man on defense, but he lacks Morgan's punch and, besides, he failed to impress sufficiently when given a trial at Cleveland last year. Gill is regarded by some of the players as the best all around man of the three, but they concede that he will have to swing a heftier mace to take the job away from Morgan. The latter is likely to start the season in centerfield, in spite of his fielding foibles.

He will be flanked in left by a real gardener, Charley Jamieson, and by an acceptable man in right, Homer Summa. These are two of the real stable positions on the club. Elton Langford, up before on the big time, is getting another trial, but the Texan is likely to go back again.

Duquesne High And Jersey Shore Lose In State Tourney

Lewistown High Defeats Western Pennsylvania Entry By Score 30 To 26

(International News Service)

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., March 24.—Lewistown and Hazelton high school basketball teams will meet this afternoon for the champion of the Pennsylvania Interscholastic Athletic association on the Penn State gymnasium floor, each having won its way into the finals of the tournament by narrow margins.

The speedy Lewistown quintet overtook Duquesne high in the last quarter to win 30 to 26, after fighting desperately to overcome the West Penn five's lead throughout the early part of the game.

Hazelton high, picked to win over Jersey Shore, found the way easy for the first quarter, but the Shoreites came back and took the lead duri.* the second half. Hazelton squeezed out a victory, 22 to 19.

Captain Weber, lanky Lewistown forward, was the star in Lewistown's victory, while Watkins, Hazelton forward, contributed to the Anthraciters' victory.

The game this afternoon was to begin at 2:30.

THESE THREE LOOK GOOD TO YANKS

Three promising rookies on whom the New York Americans are partially pinning their hopes for the future are these boys: Bill Dickey, catcher; Sammy Byrd, outfielder, and Joseph Marty, pitcher, snapped together at training camp in St. Petersburg, Fla.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS' LAND

By ED. FRITZ

Flashing his old time speed that took him to the greatest heights of track fame, Charley Paddock of California yesterday defeated Fred Alderman, Chicago sprinter, in a special 140-yard race at the Texas relay carnival held at Austin. He travelled the distance in 13.4 seconds. Paddock's former record was 14 seconds which shows that the Flash is still among those present. His feat was all that overshadowed the feat of Claude Bracey, Rice college sophomore, who equalled the unofficial world record time of 9.5 seconds for the 100-yard dash made by Paddock and Locke. A 30-mile wind helped Bracey.

The boxing bouts which are staged weekly at the Old Armory will be held Tuesday night instead of Monday night, according to Bill Jolly. Directors of various institutions requested the ringmaster of the Jolly Fistic circus to shove back the bouts one night inasmuch as they have business to consider every Monday night. In order to accommodate the gentlemen Jolly stated that he would try a new night and if it is found that it does not affect the crowds he will hold the bouts every Tuesday instead of Monday. Jolly is having plans prepared for an open air arena to be built in the first ward.

Although Bill Tilden was pressed hard at Augusta yesterday the veteran managed to win his Davis Cup tennis test match from Edward Chandler, Harvard student, 4-6, 6-2, 6-1, 7-5. The service of the ranking American player was more accurate and his handling of net balls in the outstanding singles contest of the day was of a higher order than he displayed when he won from George Lott of Chicago.

Robert Cruickshank of New York and Roy Moran, of Orlando, Fla., led the field of 81 in the opening day's golf play in the Florida open meet with cards of 139 each. Moran who is a practically unknown professional startled the field by making a card of 67 on the back round over a difficult course. He turned in a 72 during the morning round. Cruickshank's cards were 69 for the morning round and 70 during the afternoon.

Nestor Erickson, Port Chester, paced the 22.8 miles frotm Lutpon to Gallup, N. M., yesterday in 3.07:25 and was followed by Peter Gavuzzi of England and Arne Souminen of Detroit. Souminen leads the parade of Tired Legs for the 708.8 miles and his total time is 121 hours, 54 minutes and five seconds. Andrew Payne of Oklahoma who finished seventh yesterday is four hours behind his time.

The summary:

Wampum 37.		West Pittsburg 29.
White	F	Sandru
Boone	F	R. Elesser
Aiello	C	Beres
DeMark	G	G. Elesser

Shields New Tilden?

New York Boy May Be Tennis Hope

By JACK SORDS

A "second Bill Tilden" is the title predicted for a tall, gangling New York youth, young Frank X. Shields, who for many months has been one of the school boy sensations of tennis.

Not yet 17 years old, Frank is showing remarkable talents in the court game. The tremendous strides the boy took during the last year has stamped him as a great possibility to become America's foremost tennis star in the not too very distant future.

Shields apparently possesses all the physical advantages of Tilden. He is tall, broad shouldered, equipped with long, sinewy arms and has unlimited endurance.

The boy is not a volleyer or a base line player alone, but plays a satisfactory all-around court game with a wide assortment of strokes. That's the style that made and kept Tilden a great star over a long period. It may do the same for Frank.

Shields has still another year of junior play ahead of him and, with his tennis "head," his ability to volley and smash, will come into the higher circles of the court game as Vincent Richards did some time before.

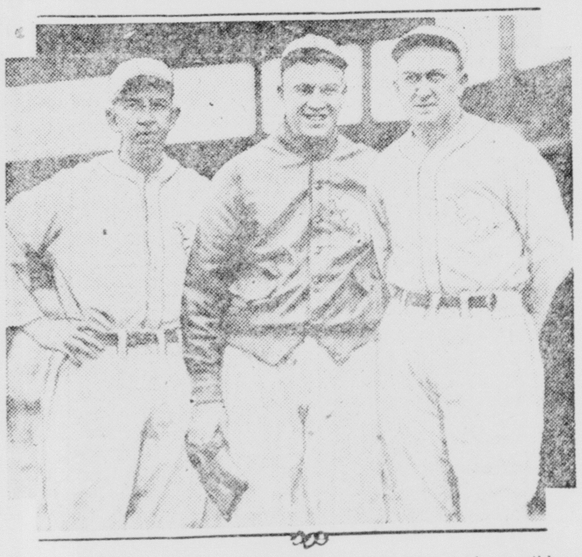

The rapid rise of Frank Shields is one of the most encouraging signs the United States has seen since the advent of Richards. With Tilden's star on the wane and all the other old reliables out of the picture or nearly so, American tennis is in dire need of players like Shields.

MILLIONAIRE IS ON AIR JOURNEY

(International News Service)

N. Y. STOCKS

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, March 24.—With hardly a stop to catch its breath, the crashing forward movement in industrial stock prices was resumed in the early trading today. General Motors forged ahead in the same confident manner as if the five full sessions of the week, rising on an enormous turnover to above 190 in the first half-hour, a new gain of three points.

With General Motors monopolizing the spot-light, the market movements of many of the well known speculative leaders were ignored in the first hour.

United States Steel moved up fractionally, but Radio and American Smelting sold off under profit-taking. General Electric recorded a new high price level and a few of the pool specialties were pushed around with no special destination.

Sears Roebuck sold up about 3 points in the wake of the mercantiles specialties, but the week-end mercantile and business reviews were quite conservative, both in their summaries of the accomplishments and their forecasts. Railroad stocks were dull but steady, with a few of the best known shares selling fractionally higher.

Injunction Halts Drama Enactment In Mount Carmel Church

(International News Service)

ALTOONA, Pa., March 24.—Harmony by injunction faced the Eleanora Duse Dramatic Club of Our Lady of Mount Carmel Catholic church today. Sale of tickets for a benefit performance, over which the group split, had been stopped by Sheriff Ira J. Baird, following issuance of a temporary injunction by Judge M. D. Patterson.

Both groups claimed to represent the real club. All plans for the play have been halted until after the hearing on the injunction before Judge Patterson April 2.

TRUCKS ARE STOPPED HAULING DIRT ALONG E. WASHINGTON ST.

At the request of Councilman C. H. Reeves, the police department this morning stopped the Woods & Golder Construction company trucks hauling dirt from the garage excavation, corner of Washington street and Florence avenue, along Washington street. The street for several blocks is covered with dirt and mud and has caused numerous complaints. Mr. Reeves stated that this must be stopped, especially for the reason that the street must be cleaned up for Sunday.

FIFTEEN MONTHS IS SENTENCE GIVEN IN FEDERAL COURT

W. S. Thellman, found guilty in federal court at Erie on the counts of possessing and driving a stolen car in this state, was exonerated on the charges of stealing and transporting the car. He was sentenced to 15 months in the federal penitentiary at Atlanta, Ga., with the option of getting two-thirds of the sentence removed by good behavior.

The charge resulted from the theft and interstate use of the car stolen in the Sharon district. Thellman was a former resident of this city.

FRANKLIN HOME DAMAGED BY FIRE

(International News Service)

FRANKLIN, Pa., March 24.—The dripping of water on a table around which they were seated gave the first warning that their home was on fire, members of the family of E. C. Ahlheim said today.

The blaze starting in a flue on the second floor ignited woodwork, melting a water pipe. Firemen extinguished the blaze with chemicals.

Lampe Is Given Fine Promotion

Bell Company Traffic Manager Goes To Wilkes-Barre District

Announcement was made today at the offices of the Bell Telephone company that Harry E. Lampe, district traffic manager for the company here, had been promoted to the position of district traffic manager with headquarters at Wilkes-Barre, Pa.

Mr. Lampe has been in New Castle for the past five years and in that time has made a host of friends. He has been particularly prominent in the affairs of the New Castle Field club. His work here for the Bell company has apparently met with the commendation of his superiors and his promotion comes as the result of his work here.

It is not known when he will leave but it is expected this will be within a week. His successor has not been named as yet.

Spelling Contest In Pittsburgh Is Bitterly Fought

(International News Service)

PITTSBURGH, March 24.—A little bell which rang as a signal that a contestant in the old-fashioned spelling bee held by the Pittsburgh diocese schools had misspelled a word, rang so seldom that another contest will be necessary before the winners can be announced, judges said today.

Each of the 120 parochial schools in Pittsburgh sent two contestants to the match. The 240 "word sharks" were divided into two groups and at a last hour were still going strong while judges searched for "man killing words." More than 1,500 crowded the auditorium to hear the match.

NEW PUNISHMENT FOR WIFE BEATERS

(International News Service)

GLASGOW, Scotland, March 24.—The Glasgow city magistrate have under consideration today a new plan of punishment for wife beaters. They propose to send every convicted wife beater to prison. But they do not intend to allow those convicted to serve their sentences right away to the detriment of their families, who might suffer if all income is discontinued. They suggest that a convicted wife beater be taken to prison every Friday night to remain incarcerated until Monday morning, so that he can return to his work.

Wolfe Swamp Dump Closed By Reeves

Orders Issued That It No Longer Be Used For Dumping Purposes

Councilman Clayton H. Reeves, head of the street department of the city, today issued orders closing the Wolfe Swamp dump for dumping purposes in the future. "No more dumping will be permitted there" said Mr. Reeves. "And those having stuff to dump must go to the paper mill or Neshannock Narrows." One of the reasons for closing the Wolfe Swamp dump is the fact that some unscrupulous persons have been dumping cabbage and old decayed vegetables there, with the result that unpleasant, unsanitary conditions have been created. Such stuff as this must be taken to the garbage furnace.

WEEKLY REVIEW OF NEW YORK MARKET

By W. S. COUSINS
International News Service Financial Editor

NEW YORK, March 24.—Feverish and excited trading in the stock market, with transactions approximating 4,000,000 shares daily in four out of five full sessions of the week, served to focus world-wide attention again on the New York financial district.

There were evidences near the week-end that the blistering pace of the market had finally brought its own corrective in the form of heavy profit taking and liquidation of high-priced stocks, but the moderate increase of only $32,000,000 in speculative bank borrowings showed conclusively that stocks were being bought by powerful interests which were full able to finance themselves without much assistance from the call loan market.

Orders Pour In

From all parts of the country orders to buy speculative stocks poured into Wall street, which for the time being has been turned into a widely gesticulating mass of humanity, competing at higher and higher prices for stocks which a few months ago were beneath the notice of big and little traders alike. Temporarily at least the important movements appear to have been cast aside, and the wild rush of unemployed money into Wall street has fed the flames of the most violent speculative activity the present generation has ever known.

Millions of dollars in new profits have been acquired by shrewd traders, some of them newcomers to the market millions of dollars added to the market values of stock exchange memberships and billions to the total values of the common stocks of American industrial enterprises. On the other hand, there are doleful tales of heavy losses sustained by the bears, who for more than a year have clung to the short side of the market.

A list of the shattered records of the past week or two would include prices of individual and groups of stocks aggregates of corporation stock values volume of trading in the listed and unlisted markets prices of staid and conservative banking houses; breadth of trading in the stock exchange and the curb; the number of new traders introduced to the market, and the huge accumulation of actual and "paper" profits by a dozen or more well-known traders.

General Motors, United States Steel, Radio, New York Central and other stocks of the highest calibre were the leaders in the advance of the week, though a number of so-called pool specialties about which not so much is known advanced all the way from five to fifty points. That manipulation has been conducted on broad scale is evident to close students of market movements, though there probably has never been a time when such a large volume of investment buying and "long pull" speculation has been compressed into such a brief period.

The turning of the tide and the sharp reversal of the market undoubtedly dates from the time of the announcement of the purchase of 200,000 shares of General Motors stock at 150. From that time the demand for the stock has been insatiable, even at a 30 point rise in price, and the market gave ample evidence of its strong position this week by boosting United States Steel in the face of an entirely different turn of events, the sale by the DuPonts of a block of 114,000 shares of Steel Common at a reported profit of $3,000,000. The railroad stocks participated more actively in the forward movement of prices this week, with high grade dividend shares in best demand. Call money was in good supply, with the rate ruling at 4½ per cent.

Already 9,000,000 have been sold at the cost of $2 per thousand, which amount includes packing and delivery to the express office. White pine, Scotch pine, Japanese larch, Norway spruce and white ash from 4 to 8 inches in height remain for sale. No Lynching In 41 States Last Year

Pennsylvania Has Had No Lynchings Within The Last 15 Years

Forty-one states were free from lynching during 1927 according to the roll of honor prepared by the Federal Council of Churches through its commisison on race relations. There has been no lynchings in the state of Pennsylvania for the past 15 years.

There were 16 lynchings which occurred last year in seven states. The number of victims was 14 less than in 1926 one less than in 1925 and the same number as in 1924.

Georgia and Florida for the first time since records have been kept, appeared on the honor roll. States that have never had record of lynching are Massachusetts, Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Vermont. All except one of the seven states that had lynchings during the past year have been on the honor roll at least one year since 1922.

The gain in territory free from mob murder is to be attributed to the pressure of public opinion which has been stimulated by the white and negro newspapers of the nation according to Dr. George E. Haynes secretary of the commission. He also states that it is significant that ten of the 16 lynchings last year occurred in two states in the Mississippi valley. He said that "the pressure of public opinion against mob violence should continue and increase until every person in America regardless of race or color is safe and secure in any state."

Speaking of practical economy there is the example of George J. Gould, Jr. He has married a Paris dressmaker.—The Saginaw Daily News.

On Waitin' On Peace

CARE FREE.

There's nothin' as scarce an' short lived as peace. Peace is an ole word an' one that is often used by th' unthinkin'. Webster says this about peace: "Rest or tranquility; calm; freedom from war or disturbance." Who could hope fer any peace in th' face o' that definition? When we git right down t' brass tacks an analyze things we realize that anything even borderin' on tranquility in this day an' age is a myth. We may git a breathin' spell now an' then, but tranquillity is another thing. I doubt if anybuddy ever reached that glorious condition o' body an' mind when it could be truthfully said o' him that he wuz even sittin' purty—unless he wuz dead an' then it would be a mere speculation. We hear o' connubial peace an' happiness, an' I'll allow that ther is little spasms o' joy an' relaxation from care in th' married state, but ther mighty fleetin', an' all put t'gether they'd comprise a mighty stingy per cent o' th' whole, one, five, or even fifty years, o' harnessed existence. Even in apartments with only cigarette ashes t' carry out, with only three rooms t' dust, no prattle o' children t' disturb th' quiet, no drudgery 'cept connectin' th' toaster, there's no such thing as peace. Either th' husband has jest been fired, or th' wife's hat haint fit t' wear no where, or they've been asked t' move, or th' can opener has been carried away in th' garbage, or ther'll be somethin' t' jim th' tranquility. Business peace! Business would go t' th' dogs without hot competition an' worry. Industrial peace is th' biggest joke. Ther'll never be industrial peace till workers fix ther own wages, an' then ther won't be peace. As long as people have t' work fer a livin' ther won't be no industrial peace. National peace! Imagine national peace with two big snarlin' political parties, middle west mugwumps, western reactionaries, eastern wets, salaried reformers, one hundred per cent Americans, an' periodical elections. I've allus though that a travelin' umbreller mender came nearer reachin' th' peace goal than any other livin' human. He quietly plies his trade, he has no incumbrances, he's not goin' anywhere, he'll sleep any place, he don't have t' shave, he's never solicited, gits no invitations, muffs all June weddin's an' intellectual treats, an' has no underwear t' fuss about, an' wears no man's collar. I wuz discussin' peace with a veteran umbreller mender only a few days ago, an' he remarked, "Brother, when my wife skipped out with a brakeman twenty years ago I thought my troubles wuz over, but yesterday I found two bridges out on th' road t' Bloom Center."

The weather man didn't take long to cure that case of incipient spring fever.—The Indianapolis Star.

Foster's Weather Prognostication

WASHINGTON Mar. 24.—A general rise in average temperatures will be expected to occur near March 24, bringing spring weather features as far north as is usual or normal at this date; storm force will decrease after severe storm wave centering on 20 but it will be well for the southwest to watch weather developments south and west of the Rio Grande for a few days as storm wave of 20 was expected to attract a moderately severe storm wave from that direction. Such storms take a few days to form and begin their travels which would mean that arrival in west Gulf would be near 27. A storm wave of moderate intensity will be expected to cross continent in central transcontinental storm path during the week centering on 25; this storm wive will occur during a general warm wave east of Rockies and cool wave west of Rockies that threatens to be a cold wave farther south than usual on Pacific slope. During last ten days of March precipitation will be expected to increase in sections 6, 7, 8 and 9, far eastern part of 1, 3 and 5; decrease in cental and western parts of sections 1, 3, and 5; little change in balance of continent. Heaviest precipitation during this period will be expected near meridian 90, Great Lakes to Gulf and in section 6, eastern cotton belt.

As an average of the North American continent spring cropweather 1928 will average very near a normal season. Every agriculturist knows or should know the average dates of arrival of principal cropweather features in his vicinity. I have forecasted no drouth in my section of North America for this season but do expect a material shortage of rainfall in a considerable portion of the continent, growing more severe as season advances. Excepting spring wheat and rye which I believe should be in the ground as early as possible in most sections of the country average spring cropweather on continent appears favorable to normal dates for all spring plantings and that once planting is started every advantage to forward operations be taken as planting season will average wet and growing weather will arrive early. Summary of expected April cropweather features will appear in next weekly bulletin.

About a year ago these bulletins carried a discussion of the probable effect of Jupiter on general and local precipitation, principally the theory advanced by a Mr. Husted that greatest precipitation occured near Jupiter's perihelion and least near his aphelion. Jupiter reaches perihelion March 15, 1928 the point in his orbit when he is nearest the sun. I believe that certain localities will receive very heavy precipitation this year but that due to influences that do not coincide with the Jupiter cycle, greatest precipitation for the continent as a whole will occur about 18 months later; that the highest stage of the great lakes during this Jupiter year considering 1928 as the middle of that year which is above twelve of our years will occur during fall of 1928; that a second flood of the lower Mississippi during this period is not probable.
